King's Irish Coach At Wedding

Four Lose Lives In Ontario When Train Hits Auto

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Four persons, one a child, were killed instantly and a fifth seriously injured today when an automobile was struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train at a level crossing at Loon Lake, 23 miles east of Port Arthur.

Ontario provincial police identified the dead as Francis Guse and Mrs. Harold Guse of Loon Lake, Mrs. Guse's child, and Kay Sully, a school teacher, of Schreiber, Ont.

They said Harold Guse was being brought to hospital here aboard a train.

Other than the fact the accident happened shortly before 9 a.m., C.S.T., they had no details.

Decision Next Week On Fare Increase For Vancouver Area

Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, indicated today that the commission's decision on an application of the B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd. to boost transit fares on the mainland would probably be made next week.

The commission today heard officers of the company, including A. E. Grauer, president, make representations for the boost, based on rising operating costs caused by the 15-cent per hour across the board wage boost granted the company's transportation workers in a strike settlement proposal accepted by the employees this week.

If the commission decides to make an interim order, it is not necessary for the order to go before the government for approval. It is understood that the company is asking that the boost become effective Dec. 1.

The application, which is only for the mainland area, is for a boost of fares from 7 cents to 10 cents and tickets from four to three for 25 cents.

No application has been made to the board concerning fares for the Victoria area.

Winnipeg Girl Sees Procession

Betty White in doorway of plane that took her to Britain.

LONDON (CP)—Sixteen-year-old Betty White of Winnipeg saw the Royal wedding procession today from a fifth-floor window of the Commonwealth Relations office, overlooking Whitehall.

This vantage point was arranged by Prime Minister King for the high school girl who missed Princess Elizabeth's wedding-gift reception Tuesday when her plane was delayed en route. Miss White, invited to London for the reception after she had sent the Princess a gift of a pair of nylon stockings, left her hotel at 8:15 a.m., hours after tens of thousands of other watchers had arrived on the scene.

Betty said afterwards she was "thrilled and excited" by the pageantry of the procession to and from Westminster Abbey

Survivors Of Newfoundland Wreck Tell Story Of Rescue

ST. ANTHONY, Nfld. (CP)—Forty-one British seamen rested today at this International Grenfell Mission outpost after a five-day ordeal, marooned on a barren rock off Newfoundland's northern tip when the Hull freighter Langlee wrecked on shore Saturday and broke in halves.

Brought here Wednesday night by the Norwegian whaler Olaf Olsen, which stood off from the pounding surf and pulled the stranded men to safety, they talked of two Yorkshire shipmates, William C. Colling of Filey and Francis Anderson of Hull, who died in an attempt to save the others.

The two tried to reach the mile-wide island carrying a line when the ship, bound from Hull for Quebec for a grain cargo, struck an offshore ledge in the fog early Saturday. They were sucked under by the boiling waves and never seen again.

Of the 41 survivors, only one, Bernum Stockland of Vancouver, is a Canadian. The ship's radio operator, he made several trips through the surf to reach the wrecked ship and send out messages asking for assistance.

8 TREATED BY DOCTORS

Only eight of the survivors required hospital attention, while the others were sheltered Wednesday night in the Grenfell Mission orphanage in this village, only 25 miles south of the point where their ship was lost, until another ship could take them to St. John's, Nfld.

The eight were being cared for by the mission surgeon, Dr. C. S. Curtis, who found time early today between his hospital duties to send an 800-word dispatch to the Canadian Press detailing the first story of the wreck and the rescue.

The story, as told him by Capt. Thomas Orford of Liverpool and Chief Officer Cyril King of Sunderland, was that the 4,900-ton freighter went hard aground about 5:30 a.m. Saturday. Her boilers exploded immediately and she began breaking in halves.

Colling and Anderson, the first to attempt to reach land, disappeared in the surf as they swam in with a line, but the remainder of the crew got ashore in lifeboats, taking stores of food and fuel with them and three tarpaulins to serve as shelter.

On Wednesday the survivors saw the first rescue ship as the merchant aircraft carrier Empire MacCallum hove up.

They were unaware of it at the time, but the MacCallum had to abandon the rescue attempt and continue on her voyage to Montreal.

USED HARPOON GUN

Then the Polar Whaling Company's little killer boat Olaf Olsen hove into sight. Equipped with a harpoon gun, she fired one of her missiles at the shore carrying a four-inch manilla line with it.

After the stranded seamen had secured the line with boulders, two of the Norwegian seamen from the Olsen came away in a dory, pulling themselves hand over hand along the line. They took two apprentice seamen of the Langlee's crew back and when they returned they used a lifeboat because the surf was too strong for the light dory.

The lifeboat was able to take six or seven men at a time off the islet and transfer them safely to the whaler, which had completed her task by noon. Then she turned around and steamed for St. Anthony.

One of the first acts of Capt. Orford after he had seen to the welfare of his crew Wednesday night was to send off to the ship's agents a message praising the seamanship of Capt. Arne Borgen of the Olsen and his crew and thanking the MacCallum for standing by.

Inquest Tomorrow Into Fire Deaths

An inquest into the circumstances that brought death to Cardna Rose, 17 months, and Wilfred T., three weeks, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sadler, as a result of the fire which leveled their Beaver Lake home Wednesday afternoon, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 at McCalls Bros. Funeral Home, Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, said today.

London Crowd Snaps Premier King's Cheers

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister King drove by himself today from his west end hotel to Westminster Abbey to attend the royal wedding.

His automobile did not follow the route of the royal procession, but he won cheers when he was recognized by watchers standing outside the Abbey.

Later the Prime Minister attended the reception at Buckingham Palace.

Weather Fails To Cloud London's Joy As Future Queen, Consort Married

(See page 13 for other stories of royal wedding.)

LONDON (CP)—Princess Elizabeth, whose tremulous "I Will" a few hours earlier in Westminster Abbey had united her in marriage to her childhood sweetheart, the new Duke of Edinburgh, left with her husband late today for their honeymoon in the quiet of rural Hampshire, far from the noisy, celebrating city that was London on their wedding day. It was a day of changeable weather, with periods of sunlight, at no time very strong.

The couple, sped on their way by confetti strewn from royal hands, left Waterloo Station at 4:20 p.m. G.M.T. (8:20 a.m. P.S.T.) after five hours of pageantry and ceremony that obviously had wearied the girl who some day may rule a quarter of the world's population.

But the eyes of the 21-year-old Princess sparkled as she left the boisterous metropolis behind. She had only 15 minutes in which to change from her satin, pearl-studded wedding gown into the mist blue coat and quilled beret in which she set off.

As the bride and groom drove out of Buckingham Palace in an open coach drawn by four greys, they were greeted by tremendous cheers from massed thousands before the gates. Led by the King and Queen, royal guests came into the courtyard to wave good-bye to the couple. They showered them with confetti and rose petals.

Driving down Whitehall en route to Waterloo Station, the Princess waved a gloved hand, smiled and nodded at the throng. The Duke saluted as they passed the Cenotaph.

The Princess took along one of her Welsh Corgi dogs.

The couple walked along a red carpet that stretched 40 feet to their car. The train left at 4:20 p.m.

A few hours earlier, beneath the great, shadowed arches of Westminster Abbey, where for centuries the kings and queens of England have passed in pomp and splendor, the Princess had been married to her childhood sweetheart as quietly and demurely as any village bride.

Standing before the gleaming gold plate of the altar, flanked by banks of flowers, the 21-year-old heiress presumptive to the throne and her groom, the 26-year-old Duke of Edinburgh—until Wednesday night—Lieut. Philip Mountbatten of the Royal Navy—exchanged vows so quietly that the words were scarcely audible.

The Duke then turned for the ring to his best man, the Marquess of Milford Haven, and at the direction of the officiating Archbishop of Canterbury, Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, placed it nervously on his bride's finger. Both knelt and the Archbishop, joining their hands, said solemnly: "Those whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

The Archbishop then pronounced "that they be man and wife together," blessed them and led them to the altar. There the young couple stood while the choir and congregation—nearly 3,000 persons, including six kings and six queens—sang the psalm, "God Be Merciful Unto Us and Bless Us."

The royal couple was joined in wedlock at precisely 11:44 a.m. G.M.T. Almost as the Archbishop, Primate of All England, pronounced the union, the great Abbey clock struck the quarter hour.

The royal couple left Buckingham Palace at 3:49 p.m. for Waterloo Station, whence they departed for their honeymoon at Broadlands, home of the groom's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, in Romsey, Hampshire.

Lipstick Suitable For Television

The Princess, who some day will rule over more than 500,000,000 persons, a quarter of the world's population, was a radiant figure in white. Her face shone above an ivory satin gown embroidered with thousands of pearls. She wore a diamond tiara, her mother's. Her lipstick was suited to television cameras.

Queen Mother Mary, now 80 years old, saw her grand-daughter married. Absent was "Uncle David," the Duke of Windsor, whose abdication in 1936 brought his younger brother to the throne and made Elizabeth heiress presumptive.

The pageantry, its effect heightened by contrast with the prevailing austerity of everyday life in postwar Britain, outshone in splendor every regal spectacle since the 1937 coronation. But with all the splendor, the service in its spirit and form was as simple and direct as that in any country Anglican church.

The ancient Abbey, burial place of Britain's illustrious dead, with its slender eminence, its fluted pillars and its soft prevailing tones of grey and gold under the shadowed arches, provided a perfect setting for the ceremony.

Looking down as if in benediction on the vast concourse of the living were the effigies and memorials of Britain's departed great—Shakespeare, Gladstone, Disraeli, Wolfe, Wordsworth, Kipling and a thousand more. Before their unseeing eyes many of the world's living personages played their parts in a unique historical tableau.

There was silence as the bridal party entered the west door, then a fanfare heralded the arrival and the procession moved slowly down the nave.

After the echoes of the fanfare died away, the organ began the procession: "Praise, My Soul, The King of Heaven." The voices of the choir blended with the organ in the hymn.

At the steps of the sanctuary the bride was joined by Philip and they stood quietly, waiting for the end of the hymn.

"Dearly beloved," the Archbishop of Canterbury began in the familiar opening words of the marriage service and the moment for which millions were waiting had arrived. The Archbishop's voice rang firmly through the magnificent old church.

The marriage lines of the Princess, which she repeated in a voice almost inaudible at times, contained the promise "to love, cherish and to obey" her husband. The Duke's marriage lines, repeated in a deep, clear voice, used the words, "to love and to cherish."

The ceremony was packed with the ancient symbolism of 1,000 years of English history. It lightened, somewhat, the hearts of the Princess's millions of future subjects, adding a splash of color and romance to a national life which has become progressively more dreary since the Second World War broke over the world in 1939.

Throughout Great Britain, in every town and village and farmhouse, and upon the high seas, in the Commonwealth and Empire, hundreds of millions of the 21-year-old Princess's future subjects rejoiced, not thinking of the ceremony as something to be shared only by the comparative few who witnessed it. Radio and television provided a personal link between the Princess and many of her people.

The Archbishop's pronouncement making the young couple man and wife was the culminating moment of months of preparation for a scene graced by the presence of almost all the surviving crowned heads of Europe and by a glittering assembly representative of the statesmanship, the chivalry and the beauty of almost every country. There, too, were representatives of all the Dominions, Prime Minister King taking his seat on behalf of Canada.

As the ceremonies came to a close, trumpeters sounded a fanfare. A moment later, the rich tones of the organ filled the Abbey and, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, the royal couple moved with procession toward the waiting thousands outside.

As Elizabeth and Philip passed the King and Queen, the young Duke bowed and his royal bride made a deep curtsy.

Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill, sitting close together, smiled as the bride took her new husband's arm for the recessional.

Peeling Of Bells Drowned By Cheers

Walking past the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier just inside the Abbey's nave, the couple emerged through the great west door.

Church bells sounded, only to be drowned in the welcoming roar of a milling, jubilant multitude.

Elizabeth, stepping into the coach, paused a moment to fold her train, taking up its ends from the two little pages, Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent.

On the short journey from the steps of the sanctuary to the altar the bridegroom had repeatedly looked back to see how the pages were managing. To help them she deliberately slowed the pace. Standing at his daughter's left the King, in the midst of the ceremony, also stooped once to grasp the train for a moment.

Donning his service cap, the Duke took his place beside his bride in the coach, the footmen mounted and the procession began its return to the palace.

The Duke reached out a window and waved at the crowds.

The National Anthem was accompanied by cheers when the King, saluting, and the Queen left the church.

They were followed by visiting royalty, including King Haakon of Norway, the Queen of the Hellenes and the King and Queen of Denmark.

under Admiralty Arch, entering the Mall leading to the palace, the Princess smiled and waved to the crowds and her husband saluted.

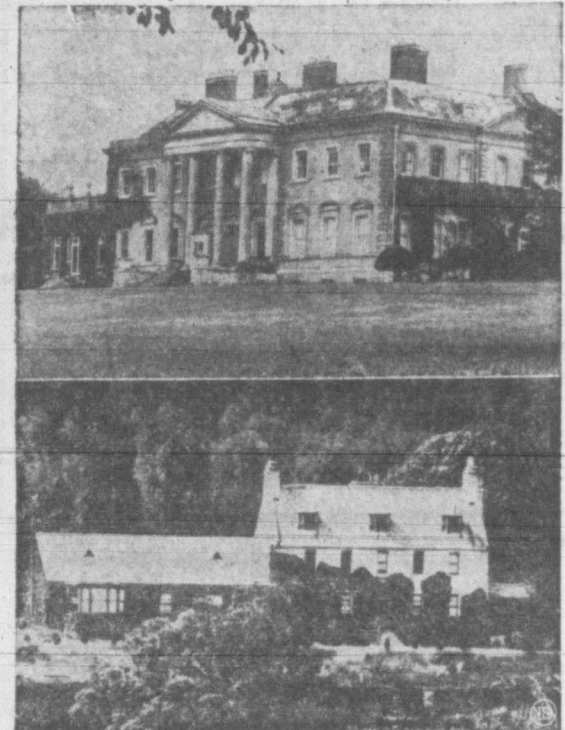

The cheers kept pace with the procession, rising in an unbroken roar that echoed over St. James' Park.

As the coach entered the palace forecourt both Philip and Elizabeth smiled and waved happily. Inside the gates they were welcomed by the palace staff.

Shortly afterward the King and Queen, followed by their royal guests, returned to the palace for the wedding breakfast.

Where Royal Pair Are Honeymooning

Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, started their honeymoon at Broadlands, pictured at top, in Romsey, Hampshire. The 18th century home of Viscount and Viscountess Mountbatten is used partly as a hospital, and the royal couple will use only a section of it. The royal couple will spend the remainder of their wedding trip at Birkhall, below, the summer home of the Duchess of Kent near Balmoral, Scotland.

Princess Kathleen Grounded In Vancouver Narrows Today

The C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Steamship Coast Service ship Princess Kathleen ran aground on the north shore of First Narrows just outside Vancouver while en route to Victoria shortly after 11 this morning in dense fog. It was the second time in three months the vessel has grounded in the Narrows.

Company officials reported two tugs from the mainland city were at the scene and they expected the Kathleen to be pulled off shortly.

It was estimated there were nearly 300 passengers aboard the vessel when she grounded. Little damage is expected owing to the soft bottom where the Kathleen ran aground. It is considered possible she may be able to proceed to Victoria, once she is freed.

The Kathleen returned to passenger coastal service earlier this year after being reconverted from troop transport in which capacity she served overseas during World War II.

She first ran aground in the First Narrows on Sept. 3 this year, en route to Seattle. She was then refloated and returned to Vancouver, later resuming regular service.

Royal Wedding In U.S. Headlines

NEW YORK (CP)—New York's newspapers today "spread" the story of Princess Elizabeth's wedding almost as though it were an American event.

Typical was the first edition of the World-Telegram which gave the story an eight-column, two-line flare heading:

"Elizabeth, Philip wed amid prewar glitter."

The Journal-American, considered isolationist, carried the eight-column flare: "Philip weds Princess"

To Seek Relaxation Of Ban On U.S. Fruit, Vegetables

Possibility of relaxing the Canadian import ban on U.S. fruits and vegetables to some extent, will be explored by the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association, who will meet Monday with the deputy minister of finance at Ottawa, it was learned today by R. A. Lipsey, manager of A. P. Slade (Victoria) Ltd.

"They will meet to see what can be done about allowing supplies of fresh fruit and vegetables into Canada during those months when no Canadian supplies are available," Mr. Lipsey said. "The minute Canadian supplies are available we would not import."

"The order was too drastic," he expressed the belief that root vegetables grown locally and in other parts of B.C. would take an almost immediate boost in price.

Banning of such vegetables as lettuce, celery, tomatoes, spinach and broccoli will hit the local market very hard, he said.

"Victoria will get only 50 per cent of its normal vegetable supply and during the months of February, March and April, even less than that," Mr. Lipsey added.

Posse Of Cowboys, Police Catch 4

CLINTON, B.C. (CP)—A man-hunt, with all the color of pioneer ranch days, ended in the snow-covered hills east of here with the capture of two of four men who escaped from the Clinton jail Sunday night.

Trailed through freshly-fallen snow and across ice-filled creeks, a posse of cowboys from Cariboo ranches and police forced surrender of Robert J. Wilson and Robert L. Clement after opening fire on the fugitives. A shot passed through one man's leather jacket, but he escaped injury.

Earlier, another posse had captured Lyon W. Gordon and Arthur C. Hawk after a hunt through the hills. The men were unarmed, but one had a pocket full of ammunition.

The four, all believed from Vancouver, had been held at Clinton awaiting trial on an auto mobile theft charge. Clinton is in the rugged Cariboo ranch country, 200 miles north of Vancouver.

Butane Explosion Kills Five In Idaho Cafes

Nampa, Idaho, fire department officials blamed a gas cooking range in the kitchen of a restaurant for the butane explosion which wrecked two cafes, killing at least five persons and injuring 34 others. The explosion occurred when both cafes were filled with Saturday night guests.

Alberta C.C.F. Head Says 'Little Doubt' Of Early Election

EDMONTON (CP)—There is now "little doubt" that the people of Alberta will be called upon in the next few months to choose a government, Elmer E. Roper, Alberta leader of the C.C.F. party, said today in welcoming delegates to what he termed the "most important convention" in the history of the C.C.F. in the province.

He said evidence was "abundant" that the number of Albertans now desiring a change of government "has grown to the place where it probably embraces more than half of the voting population."

(The term of Premier E. C. Manning's Social Credit administration does not expire until August, 1949, there has been no official indication that an early election will be called, and Mr. Manning has offered no comment on rumors to this effect.)

Mr. Roper said, in an address to the delegates, that the government's lavish generosity in the administration of natural resources had resulted in the "virtual blanketing of the potential oil-producing areas of the province by the huge American corporations."

In rural electrification, Alberta was the most backward province in Canada. Education was "in bad hands" and required a new policy.

"I do not wish to anticipate any pronouncements that should properly be made by this convention in respect to a program to effect a people's government in this province, but I am sure I am safe in saying that there are three steps to this end that would be taken immediately by a C.C.F. administration," he said. "One would be the establishment of a department of labor with a minister in charge. Another would be the establishment of a department of co-operatives with a minister in charge. Still another would be to strengthen the department of agriculture and broaden its activities."

Freeze Out At Last

CALGARY (CP)—Alderman Frank Freeze, who had never lost an election battle in 21 years in civic politics, failed Wednesday to unseat Mayor James C. Watson. Final count was 16,464 for the mayor, who will finish his first two-year term in a few weeks, and 12,170 for Ald. Freeze.

Mayor Watson ran on a united civic labor slate, Ald. Freeze for the civic government association.

Eclipse Casualties

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Last week's partial eclipse of the sun has left 12 persons here with serious and possibly permanent eye injuries, medical sources said. The patients did not take proper precautions—such as the use of smoked glass—in staring at the solar phenomenon.

General Got Job For Father-In-Law At $12,000 Salary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigations, unfolding the story of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers' relations with Aviation Electric Company, heard testimony Wednesday that he put his father-in-law on its payroll at $12,000 a year and himself got $14,220.89 from it in the three years 1941, 1942 and 1943.

There was more to come, for T. E. Readnow testified that an arrangement whereby he was a "dummy" officer and most of his $15,000 "salary" went to Meyers continued until the Dayton, Ohio, concern was dissolved in 1945.

Readnow, 30, of Dayton, Ohio, told the Senate War Investigating Committee the company, which other witnesses have said Meyers secretly owned, paid him $100 monthly while he served in the army.

He told the senators that on one occasion he delivered more than $7,000 in cash to Meyers in an envelope, representing the residue of his ostensible 1941 $15,000 salary after payment of taxes.

Readnow said that Meyers, retired deputy chief of air forces procurement (purchasing) gave him $1,000.

With this $1,000, Readnow said, his actual 1941 pay from the company was $2,259.34.

Readnow was on the firm's books as vice-president and secretary. He is a brother-in-law of B. H. Lamarre, the company's president.

Lamarre, recalled to the witness chair immediately after Readnow, testified that Meyers' father-in-law, a former bus driver, was installed as production manager of Aviation Electric despite a "total lack of experience."

The Senate group is making a general investigation of Meyers' relations with war contractors.

Famous Diamond In Hold-up Loot

DARTMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—The famous Amati diamond, described as 11th largest in the world and worth $100,000, was among $200,000 in jewelry reported stolen at pistol point Tuesday night by three masked men from Mrs. Richard N. Coffin, former show girl and once wife of the late Damon Runyon.

Police, in announcing the 31.31 carat stone was included in the loot, said it was a family heirloom and known to jewelers throughout the world. They added the loot was "practically all covered by insurance."

Mrs. Coffin, who was divorced from the famed newspaper man and author, related that she and her young husband encountered the robbers when they returned from Boston to their palatial home.

2 Children Drown

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Two young brothers drowned Wednesday when they crashed through the ice on a lake near their home in the northern Ontario district. Herve Laforce, six, and his eight-year-old brother, Leo, dropped into the icy water when thin ice on the lake gave way under them.

In 1913-14 the seven companies producing dyes in the United States made 6,600,000 pounds, valued at $2,400,000; in 1942 some 50 firms produced 152,000,000 pounds with a valuation of approximately $100,000,000.

U.S.A.F. To Test Biggest Bomb Yet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States air forces will begin test drops of the world's heaviest bomb—a 42,000-pounder—in about two weeks at the Muroc air base in the California desert, it was learned here.

The mammoth bomb will be suspended from newly-devised shackles half in and half out of the lengthened bomb bay of a modified B-29 Superfortress and will clear the ground by bare inches when the airplane makes its takeoff run.

The bombs dropped at Muroc probably will be "duds," weighted to compensate for the lack of explosive charges.

It is assumed army ordnance experts then will conduct their own tests of the explosive potential.

From their experiments, they will get their information on earth shock, blast area and zones of damage.

The air force said the 42,000 pounds will be the heaviest bomb load ever lifted by a plane. Toward the end of the war a B-29 was converted to carry two R.A.F.-type 22,000-pound bombs—one under each wing—for use against Japan, but it never flew a mission.

Plenty Of Butter

VANCOUVER (CP)—Normal Canadian butter requirements during the winter months should be met by the Canadian dairy industry, R. C. Smellie, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, said here.

"Fortunately, open fall months and higher prices to dairy farmers have resulted in substantial increases in production, and apart from temporary local shortages in the spring, Canadians should have no difficulty in buying all the butter they need," Mr. Smellie said.

Withdrawal of government wartime subsidies and increased production costs have necessitated readjustment of price levels but future prices are largely in the hands of the consumers, he said.

Scientists Pick Up Sun Music—They Think

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Harvard scientists believe they've picked up "music of the sun" on a special radio receiver—and one of them said "it sounds like gravel on a tin roof."

"It's a rattling, whistling sound, very similar to ordinary static," Dr. Winfield Salisbury told a reporter at the autumn meeting of the "National Academy of Sciences," but, to my knowledge, ordinary static has not been observed at the frequencies at which we've been listening."

Yank Soldier Becomes Buddhist Priest

T/5 George Levy, 21, of New York City, stationed with a medical dispensary in Tokyo, is believed to be the first member of the occupation forces to take the vow of a Buddhist priest. Shown during the ceremony at the Koyasan Betsuin Buddhist Temple, Shiba Ward, Tokyo, Levy said he had no other religion and took this step to further his studies of religion. Young Levy, whose name was changed to Nyokai during the ceremony, hopes to enter the University of Chicago after his discharge from the army.

Abduction Charged

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—Charges of illegally abducting his two children have been laid by George Kent of Coderre, Sask., against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter of Rolling Hills, Alta., it was learned Wednesday. He had been awarded custody of the children after a judicial separation from his wife.

THE ROYAL WEDDING

BY THE TIME THIS IS READ THE elder daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth will have taken her marriage vows. She and her consort will have received the heartiest of good wishes from people in every quarter of the globe. None will have excelled the cordiality of those which have reached the happy pair from the citizens of this senior overseas Dominion of the British Commonwealth of Nations. And it was a noble thought that many of the glad tidings from Canada should take the form of practical gifts. Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth, who today has become the bride of Lieut. Philip Mountbatten—whom His Majesty has named Duke of Edinburgh—has a warm spot in her heart for the welfare of the people over whom one day she may rule. She will derive much comfort from the knowledge that Canadians share her solicitude for a valiant folk who require no dictionary to elucidate for them the meaning of austerity living.

As the history of nations and tradition is measured, it is not so very long ago that a marriageable son or daughter of the Royal House had little to say about whom he or she might consider a suitable partner for life's journey; parents and high officers of state were largely responsible for the selections. Such of this procedure as survived the dawn of the 19th century, however, now belongs to a bygone age; it is buried deep in the limbo of those almost forgotten relics of feudalistic practices which never again can match the impact of the march of progress. Like her father and mother nearly a quarter of a century ago, today's bride did her own choosing; by all those accounts upon which an interested public can reach its opinion, Elizabeth and Philip are as much in love with one another as the maiden and her swain who do their courting down the country lanes of a Britain whose glorious past and present owe so much to the imperishable associations of the domestic hearth. Perhaps, moreover, nowhere throughout the length and breadth of the land is the sanctity of the home better exemplified than in the Royal quarters at Buckingham Palace.

Princess Elizabeth has been singularly fortunate in the simplicity of the atmosphere in which she has grown to young womanhood. To the force of example so sensibly set for her by her parents she owes much of her easy graciousness, her charm of manner, and her capacity to make and keep the right kind of personal friends. Her public appearances, her chats over the airwaves, her love of people, her participation in outdoor pastimes, and all the naturalness that these bespeak have furnished a fitting background against which the dignity of her high estate stands out in such pleasant relief. In other words, she is, and bids fair to remain, a typical product of her native land—a genuine, unaffected, happy soul, sound in mind and body. And though this is the day on which the special circumstances attract more attention to herself than to her consort in the popular sense, there is every reason to believe that the gallant sailor lad who henceforth will share the joys and sorrows of his Princess will prove himself thoroughly worthy of her. Their lifelong happiness will be the profound wish of all people everywhere.

OUR CONTRACTING WORLD

CANADA, LIKE THE REST OF THE democratic countries, is faced with the gradual encroachment of Soviet influence and Communist ideology in a number of lands in both hemispheres. Regardless of one's views of the rightness or wrongness of the communistic system as a national way of life, and one's acceptance or distrust of those who seek to enforce such a domestic pattern, one thing stands out clearly. A country, which enters the Soviet orbit—and half a dozen satellite nations could be named as examples—becomes to all intents and purposes lost as far as interchange of goods and people and ideas with the democracies is concerned. As the communistic world expands, the democratic world contracts, with all that that implies regarding our continued welfare.

A nation which comes under the Soviet hegemony immediately goes behind the iron curtain. We can no longer visit its people without special government permission—rarely granted; and residents of the country can no longer freely come out to visit us. Export and import trade immediately comes under the control of those who guide the Communist destinies; hence democratic countries are excluded wherever possible in order to make the nations behind the curtain self-sufficient. Trans-frontier financing becomes frozen. Interchange of ideas stops. We hear from the satellite countries only what we are allowed to know, while on their side, publication of news from abroad is severely censored and made an instrument of propaganda. For those still outside the curtain, the free world has become smaller.

The application of these facts to the Dominion was emphasized this week in an address before the Canadian Club of this city by Mr. R. W. Keyserlingk, managing director of British United Press. The progress of the ideological conflict now active in several parts of the globe is of vital importance to this country, and those others which think as we do. Particularly is this true as regards the Orient, which Canada has long viewed as a great market of the future. We have become accustomed to refer to the vast commercial possibilities of our position as the gateway to the Pacific "when the huge demand of China is developed." What now becomes apparent is that that market may never be available to us, if the Communist forces of China should triumph in the current civil war. China would be absorbed into the Soviet-dominated circle, and our dreams of free commercial exchange with her would be ended, or at best postponed to the far-distant future.

For experience of this, one need only look to Europe, where those nations under the Kremlin influence received orders not to take part in the "Marshall Plan," and not one, however reluctantly, failed to obey. We must be alive, nationally as well as internationally, to the necessity of keeping the free world as large as possible. Each convert lost to totalitarianism reduces it.

GRIM WARNING

YESTERDAY'S TRAGIC FIRE AT Beaver Lake, which took the lives of two infants, and the fatal blaze at Port Alberni Monday morning, underscore the reports which have been presented on conditions that exist in Victoria. What happened at the rural Saanich concession could have happened here.

Authorities of the fire department have emphasized the dangers existing in this city as the result of overcrowding and the inability to eliminate structures in which the fire risk is high. Because shelter is so urgently needed, some dwellings overdue for demolition are being allowed to stand. Those who make it a business to assess the risks which are entailed in the preservation of such houses have no illusions over the menace they have become.

Under these circumstances, it is more imperative than ever that occupants of frame houses take every precaution possible to avoid fire. Litter should not be allowed to accumulate in basements or attics. Wiring should be inspected and repaired or replaced where it is defective. Chimneys should be put in first-class shape. Furnaces and stoves should be maintained in good and safe working order. All the preventive measures should be applied. Inconveniences or expense cannot be determining factors in this work. No amount of money will restore a human life.

And because so many Victoria homes are of wooden construction and are two stories in height, it would be the part of wisdom for parents of small children to drill their offspring in escape practices, just as they are drilled in school. Time expended on that procedure now would be of untold value in the event of a fire.

CROSSROADS

IT IS NO UNFAMILIAR SITUATION FOR France to be looking desperately for a man to head her government. The vicissitudes of administration in that multi-partied nation over the past quarter of a century have been such as to provoke comment, both humorous and anxious, among observers in other parts of the world. The balancing of powers in a representative assembly where no one party can achieve an over-all majority leads to instability and delay, and places in the hands of minority interests the ability to exert an undue influence on the government in proportion to their voting support among the people of the country.

It is safe to say, however, that at few times in her history has the French Republic faced more serious national problems or more consequential decisions than those with which she is confronted today. With widespread strikes threatening the recovery of her economy and political dissension creating wide breaches among her population, France stands at a point in the road where she must decide whether to go left, following the doctrines of the Communists; veer to the right, in the footsteps of De Gaulle; or pursue the middle course of modified socialism which she has been attempting. Her decision will have vital repercussions on the rest of Europe and the world.

FREE TO SPEAK OR TO HEAR

IT IS AN ANALOGY OF DEMOCRACY that in the preservation of its principles of freedom it must often protect those men and organizations whose ambitions, if achieved, would destroy it. Thus we read that London policemen have defended with truncheons the right of Sir Oswald Mosley and his Fascist supporters to hold a political meeting in that city which has aptly been known as the heart of democracy. In a similar way, members of the same law enforcement agency stand ready to protect Communist meetings from the physical attacks of Fascists. Both sides are free to speak in halls or at that famous corner of Hyde Park which lies adjacent to the Marble Arch.

To number the countries of the world in which this situation prevails today is to list the strongholds of democracy. Their strength lies in the fact that while a speaker is free to say what he likes on the public platform, the man in the street is equally free to listen or not as he chooses, and to act as he likes on the basis of what he hears. That is a prerogative of the dweller in a democracy; on his good judgment rests the continuance of the freedom which he enjoys.

Clearing The Desk

A DIGEST OF LETTERS

THOUGH BUSES AND streetcars are again running, repercussions of the B.C. Electric strike still bring letters to the editor.

From Joan Norman, 1675 Oak Bay Avenue, comes the suggestion that if fares are to be increased, the public should seek the co-operation of motorists in a continuance of independent transit and decline use of the public carriers until a six-cent fare is assured.

Walter W. Josephs, 1505 Fort Street, says he has heard two speeches by B.C.E.R. strike representatives and calls for consideration of the public's position. "I wonder," he asks, "if these men realize that there are many in Victoria who are in receipt of salaries a little over $100 per month, and who have to bring up families on this salary, aye, well educated men, too."

C. H. Inverarity, 905 Cook Street, also draws attention to the position of those with fixed incomes and suggests a tax strike to protest any possible fare increase.

H. E. Burnett and another correspondent who signs himself Old Age Pensioner, voice sincere thanks to motorists who have afforded them transportation into and from town during the tie-up.

FROM Emily B. Elworthy, 615 Fort Street, comes the suggestion that Princess Elizabeth's wedding dress, following its use at the actual ceremony, be placed on a model figure and sent traveling abroad for inspection by those who wish to see the garment. Proceeds from its showing, the writer suggests, could be used to buy comforts for the people of Britain.

Mrs. F. Cross, secretary of the Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.E., seeks to clear up a misunderstanding relative to the Nov. 3 show sponsored by the chapter at the Royal Victoria Theatre. On that occasion John Beadell, Vancouver, had been invited to sing and had accepted. His name was included on the program, but when Mr. Beadell arrived in Victoria "there was no piano on the stage and he found it impossible to sing. Unfortunately this difficulty could not be overcome at the last moment." The chapter extends thanks to those who assisted it in the undertaking and specifically those who made it possible for 20 children from the Orphanage to attend.

TRIBUTE TO THE conservation efforts of the late Mr. F. B. Pemberton is paid in a letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Mackenzie, president, Society for Preservation of Native Plants of British Columbia. A lover of trees and flowers of this province, Mr. Pemberton's knowledge of them was real, and the success of his efforts to have them protected were widely appreciated.

D. R. Stewart, chairman of the Vancouver Island Turkey Improvement Association show committee, takes cognizance of the S.P.C.A. objection to the proposed "turkey parade," declares the protest an "asinine alarm" and asks "the society's officers would be assuaged if sedatives were administered to the birds when they were taken 'for an airing in a comfortable crate' before 'butchering them in order to add to our own financial grossness.'"

L. J. Pepper, 4010 Grange Road, challenges syndicate writer Lewis Milligan's contention, published on this page recently, that the mystery of the "missing link" is still a mystery. He quotes Darwin and Huxley in support of his case and asks the point in Mr. Milligan's assertions regarding the "gap" between the different species. Science, says the letter writer, "has shown there is no 'gap.' Could not the same end as that suggested by Mr. Milligan in his claim of creation 'have been achieved if man had been content to admit he was a product of accident made possible because of the principles of creative evolution?'"

In another letter the same writer cites recent scientific discoveries to support the contention that the British Columbia Department of Education should screen its curriculum to eliminate "theory or superstition, supposition or guesswork, and teach the young only such facts as may be proved or measured."

H. J. TOBIN, Veterans' Hospital, advocates a careful study of Hansard by the individual to inform himself or herself on the measures taken to give a dynamic to democracy and co-operative action in Canada.

Alex. H. Sutherland, 2800 Dewdney Ave., sees in sweepstakes a means of providing adequate hospital financing if financial arrangements for curative establishments cannot be made similar to those from which schools draw their support.

David Bernard, Toronto, "as an immigrant, was astonished to find that when I became a Canadian citizen, my wife will be entitled to a monthly allowance from the government on behalf of our son." He considers the "baby bonus" a gross waste of taxpayers' money and would prefer a reduction in income tax.

MRS. ALICE COLCLOUGH, View Royal, points to the need of enough individual citizens with spiritual ideals as a sheet anchor to give an incentive to a stand for real sacrifice and to show moral and physical courage in the trying times in which we exist.

Fred Smith, 839 Pandora Ave., takes issue with the Times, charging that "scarcely an item on the U.S.S.R." appears in the paper "that does not betray either ignorance or malice aforethought." He recommends pages 214, 215 and 216 of Richard Lauterback's "Through Russia's Back Door" as evidence of the fallacy of the "next war" idea.

Ah, Enters The Hero

Britain And The Nursing Problem

U.K. Information Office

FAR-REACHING recommendations on the training of student nurses are made in a report presented to the United Kingdom government last month. This report, made by a "working party" appointed in January, 1946, is one of a series, the majority of which are devoted to examining proposals for increasing efficiency in industries not designated for nationalization.

The terms of reference of the working party included a survey of the whole field of the recruitment and training of nurses, the assessment of the nursing force required for the National Health Service, and suggestions as to how it can best be recruited, trained and deployed. A series of proposals designed to achieve these ends is contained in the majority report. One of the members of the working party, who has reservations as to the practicability of the majority recommendations is preparing a minority report.

Among the suggestions made by the majority are: Full student status for nurses in training; a wider basic training, including training in public health; and a training period of two years (instead of three as at present), followed by a year's practice under supervision.

BROAD RECOMMENDATIONS

Other recommendations cover the grouping of selected hospitals and public health units to form composite training units; establishment of regional nurse training boards; a new grade of "nursing order" to replace the present grade of "assistant nurse"; and "officer selection" methods for appointments to senior posts. It is also suggested that a shift system of working (three eight-hour shifts in 24 hours) be instituted in place of the present system of split duty, by which a nurse may be on duty for 13 or 14 hours, with two hours off in the course of the day.

The working party estimates that the wastage of nurses in training could be reduced from about 50 per cent at present to 15 per cent, if a new system of selection and training were adopted. The new methods of training advocated include the elimination of domestic work and repetitive tasks, thus making it possible to reduce the length of time spent in training. The removal of any restrictions on the employment of married nurses is also recommended, as is the development of part-time nursing, and the increased use of male nurses.

The adoption of full student status and the three-shift system would require an additional 22,000 to 24,000 trained nurses, and some 14,000 nursing orderlies. To provide for existing needs and training reforms, the trained nursing force would have to be at least 120,000 to 125,000, as compared with about 80,000 in 1945.

Emphasis On Physics

Norway Digest

THE first yearly gathering of the Norwegian Techno-Physical Research Council meeting in Oslo recently was highlighted by the report of Prof. Svein Rosseland, spokesman of the atomic committee — one of the six special bodies earlier established under the council. Prof. Rosseland called for speeded development of the physics departments within Norway's institutions of higher learning as a prerequisite for independent Norwegian research in this field.

A plan was presented for the expansion and procurement of technical equipment for the physics departments at the University of Bergen, the Christian Michelsen Institute, the University of Oslo, and the Norwegian Institute of Technology in Trondheim.

heim involving expenditures of nearly 1,000,000 Kroner over a two-year period. The plan includes purchase of a betatron of 45,000,000 electronic volts for the University of Bergen, with smaller electro-static generators for both Oslo and Trondheim. Earlier, the Norwegian Ministry of Defence Research Institute was granted 5,000,000 kroner for the construction of a uranium pile, which project is now expected to be combined with the activities of the research council. The council is also anticipating additional research support from the Defence Ministry, to coincide with the overall atomic-research plan now being developed.

Prof. Rosseland noted how various branches of Norwegian science, eagerly awaiting development of the uranium pile in the interest of isotope production, had welcomed reports that the United States was now facilitating isotope export. This would make it possible for Norwegian scientists to begin the study of new procedures and methods even before their own uranium pile was completed and working, according to Prof. Rosseland.

Thus far the committee has also secured 200,000 kroner ($40,000) for scholarships to 24 young and qualified students now studying abroad. An additional 400,000 kroner has been made available to the council for preparatory research organization during the same period. One of the most vital tasks of the council is research organization in the industrial field. Here, over 1,000,000 kroner have been made available through the Ministry of Commerce.

Story Of A Hat

From London Calling

DURING his visit to Australia Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery promised the Prime Minister there that he would present the famous Australian bush hat which he wore during the North African campaign to the Australian National War Memorial at Canberra. The presentation ceremony was held at Australia House in London and in his speech which was broadcast in the BBC's overseas service, the Field-Marshal told the story of how he came to acquire that hat.

"The story of the hat is quite a simple one. When I arrived out in the desert to take command of the Eighth Army in which was the Ninth Australian Division, having just come from this country I couldn't stand the hot sun of the desert. My first day there I was visiting the Ninth Division — General Moreshead — and I began to feel rather overcome by the sun on the back of my neck. So I asked General Moreshead if he would give me one of his Australian hats to wear. Somebody was immediately dispatched to the quartermaster's store, and brought me a hat.

"I wore it for the next few weeks. Now, the next day I went down to the New Zealand Division and they saw me in this Australian hat and they said, 'You should wear a New Zealand hat,' and I said 'No, I can't do that. I must wear this hat, but you can put your badge in it if you like.' And so the New Zealanders put their badge in this hat. There after, everywhere I went in the Eighth Army, the units used to pin their badge into my hat and it finally became so heavy it was rather difficult to wear and then in course of time I got used to the sun and didn't have to wear the hat and took to a beret."

CARELESS DRIVING

Winnipeg Free Press

The car driver who smashes into someone else may have his faculties fogged by liquor at the time. More frequently there is no such interference with his mental processes. It is not the drunken driver, menace to society though that person unquestionably is, who is involved in the majority of accidents, but the perfectly sober adult citizen who forgets his responsibility.

Global Survey

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst

IN THESE uncertain days when thrones have been falling like the leaves of autumn, what knight is bold enough to enter the lists as champion of a royal princess who one day will be queen?

Well, for one I give you young Mountbatten, who today married his princess charming and thus will be the consort of another reigning Queen Elizabeth. Moreover, your correspondent is able to assure you from one who knows the Princess, that this in fact is a love match and not an "arranged" marriage in the generally accepted sense of that term.

The two young folk were more or less brought up together, and have been sweethearts since childhood. So let the old curmudgeons begone with their happy tales of marriage for convenience. Give love its day.

But apart from this romance, what does the throne mean to Britain which is ruled by a Socialist government of the people's choice? If you ask the average Briton he will tell you something like this:

TRADITION

The British people are steeped in the tradition of centuries, and they live greatly in the past. Indeed their national strength has been due largely to an esprit de corps which tradition has helped to build. And the sovereign is the unifier of everything they believe. He (or she) is both head of state and defender of the faith. That is, the ruler is the religious as well as the national symbol—a symbol which binds together not only the people of the British Isles but of the colonies and the world-wide commonwealth of sovereign nations.

The British people believe in constitutional monarchy because the throne is above politics. Prime ministers may come and go, but the King (or Queen) always is there, equally able to play his part with Conservatives or Socialists. He is the best-informed person in the country, so far as concerns affairs of state, for he has devoted his entire life to the study of Britain, the dominions and the colonies.

ADVICE

That is the reason prime ministers go to the sovereign for advice—and often take it. Your correspondent has seen the truth of this demonstrated during his long service as a newspaperman in Britain. It would be a hardy prime minister who would go against the studied advice of the ruler in an emergency.

So we see that the Royal Family is the focal point of the national life. That accounts for the warmth and affection being shown Princess Elizabeth on this great occasion.

Those who know Princess Elizabeth say that when the time comes she will make a good queen. And here I will let you into another little secret. Apart from the fact that she is a lovely and charming young woman, she has inherited one of the outstanding family traits: she has a very determined mind of her own. Just like her great-great-grandmother Victoria.

SO MUCH FOR BEAUTY

Ottawa Journal

Perhaps now we may be permitted to say, and seriously, that The Journal despises female beauty competitions wherever they are held. They are vulgar, stupid and invidious and sometimes, as in Atlantic City, almost indecent. We don't want to see Canada importing from the United States a publicity stunt that has so many objectionable features. Perhaps ridicule will be more effective in stopping the pest.

CHARACTER REVEALING

The Times of London

If we are not to be allowed any baths this winter—and such a restriction seems to be foreshadowed—then the real strength and weakness of our characters will become apparent. Leaving on one side those hardy and ostentatious persons who have a cold bath all the year round, there will be nothing for it but to bathe in sections. That is a process effective enough if conscientiously carried out, but it can never be a pleasure in itself, for one section grows cold while another is enjoying momentary warmth; there can be no glowing uniformity of satisfaction; there is an utter lack of team spirit between the members. It is then that the temptation of 10 minutes longer in bed becomes almost overwhelming. There seems nothing for it but to wallow while yet we may and think of the best jokes we can against so bleak a prospect.

Students Sing To Honor Princess

The lilting melody of "It Was a Lover and His Lass" was one of the program numbers chosen for the special choral program at Victoria High School Wednesday to mark the marriage of Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten. Seen in the picture are (left to right) Marion Lawrence, Joan Ashwin, Donna Munroe, Carol Pomeroy and Julie Lindsay.

Under the able direction of Miss Norma Douglas the choir at Victoria High School Wednesday presented a choral program to mark the marriage of Princess Elizabeth.

Excellent harmony marked the girls' singing of "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps," "It Was a Lover and His Lass," and "Church Bells of England." R. H. C. Palmer, who arranged the descent, conducted the singing of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

The boys' group sang "There Is a Lady Sweet and Kind" and the two combined for the singing of "Half-Past Two," "Dabbling in the Dew" and "Here's Health Unto His Majesty."

Rita Price and Mervyn Beaveridge presented a duet, and Miss Evelyn Prisk was accompanist for the entire concert.

The girls' group wore long frocks for the singing, and presented a pretty picture as they carolled the songs to the crowded auditorium of their schoolmates.

H. L. Smith, principal of the school, presided at the concert, which was also attended by several members of the school board.

Urges Oak Bay To Abandon Plan For Underground Wiring

Oak Bay municipal engineer, A. S. G. Musgrave, Wednesday night advised the municipal council to give up any schemes for underground wiring owing to the high cost, which would be entailed by the project.

Approximate figures given by the B.C. Electric Co. showed cost of underground wiring for one house alone would be $1,000, he said, adding that it would cost between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 to remove all the poles from Oak Bay streets.

Councillor C. C. Annett told the council the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club had undertaken to place a number of seats at vantage points along the waterfront. Mr. Musgrave has made a selection of the sites for the seats which will cost about $20 each and will have concrete bases in an effort to avoid vandalism.

In another report to the council, the municipal engineer urged careful consideration of methods to be used in removing streetcar tracks within the municipality. If the rails could be lifted by hand and not bent, the municipality could get between $25 and $40 a short ton for them, he said, but if they were lifted by shovel or other methods which would bend the rails, only scrap prices, of about $7.50 a short ton, could be obtained.

A request by the Community Chest for a grant was turned down. Reeve Walter Walker said there were no funds available for such a donation as no appropriation had been made. However, he pointed out, the municipality had already made grants to individual agencies in the Community Chest.

The council adopted a proposal to give the name "Ripon Road" to the southern part of Lincoln Road.

Wootton To Seek Oak Bay Reeveship

Councillor R. A. B. Wootton Wednesday evening announced he would seek election as reeve of Oak Bay, to succeed Reeve Walter Walker who is retiring as reeve at the end of this year. Having served three years on Oak Bay council, Councillor

Profound Musicianship, Tone Quality, Mark Adaskin Program

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Two Canadian musicians of broad attainment and scholarly gifts presented a distinguished program on Wednesday evening at the Empress Hotel. The occasion was the first guest recital of the season under the auspices of the Victoria Musical Art Society, and featured Harry Adaskin, violinist, with Frances Marr at the piano.

Mr. Adaskin's mastery of his instrument is impressive. The profundity of his musicianship even more so. His playing has a richness of detail, an intellectual quality that sets it apart. All the virtuosic elements are present, but controlled so that they are never disproportionate; the crispness of attack that is not brusque; the brilliance of tone that does not destroy itself by becoming harsh. Mr. Adaskin's bow technique was responsible for some polished and exceedingly neat phrasing.

Frances Marr, who is Mrs. Adaskin in private life, shared equally with her husband, in the extensive demands of the two Sonatas of the Beethoven A major, Opus 30, and the Cesar Franck. With a very full, almost masculine tone and technique at her disposal, her musical gift is also an intellectual one, so that she provides her husband with a beautifully balanced partnership.

Traveling Dress

This is the dress of Princess Elizabeth's going-away ensemble. The simple dress is made of love-in-the-mist blue crepe with cross-over bodice draped to the left hip. There are three inset panels in the skirt.

LONDON (AP) — The royal wedding was a women's show, from the bride in her glittering tiara of diamonds, to the old, old cockney woman who bedecked her bedraggled self with red, white and blue rosettes.

It was the women who cried out with close to tearful appreciation at the sight of the magnificent mounted guardsmen, whose sleek horses and red, white and gold uniforms first broke the monotony of the bleak day, the grey, tired crowds.

It was the women who cheered loudest for the wedding guests—Churchill, Eden and Smuts—in that order.

It was the women whose breaths caught at the sight of three-year-old Richard, son of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, dressed in a white bunny coat, the pretty blond boy stood at the window of a limousine and solemnly waved his fingers. Women set up housekeeping along the route of the royal wedding. Hundreds heard Big Ben strike the hours 11 times, they camped all night on boxes, wrapped in blankets. They kept their children warm and shushed and fed them out of the British canvas carry-alls which can hold, shapelessly, the necessities of life.

Many women had seen all the royal weddings of their generation. They gathered from all parts of the United Kingdom—from Wales, for instance, paying £110 ($6) to ride all night in a bus to London, and they'll be back home to cook breakfast in the morning.

It was the women who beamed with pride on their royalty.

It was the women who fainted, keeling over quietly and as quietly were carried away by the uniformed ambulance corps.

From the golden bird of paradise feathers on Countess Mountbatten's hat to the hand-knit stocking caps on schoolgirls,

Soroptimists Club Sponsors Current T.B. Seal Campaign

Miss Nell Jones (right), a past president of the Soroptimist Club, is in charge of the T.B. clinic at the Royal Jubilee Hospital and through her work knows the value of the annual T.B. seal campaign. Here she is pictured giving instructions to Miss J. Stokes, student nurse, in the proper method of administering a tuberculin skin test. Miss Sheila Beckwith acted as patient.

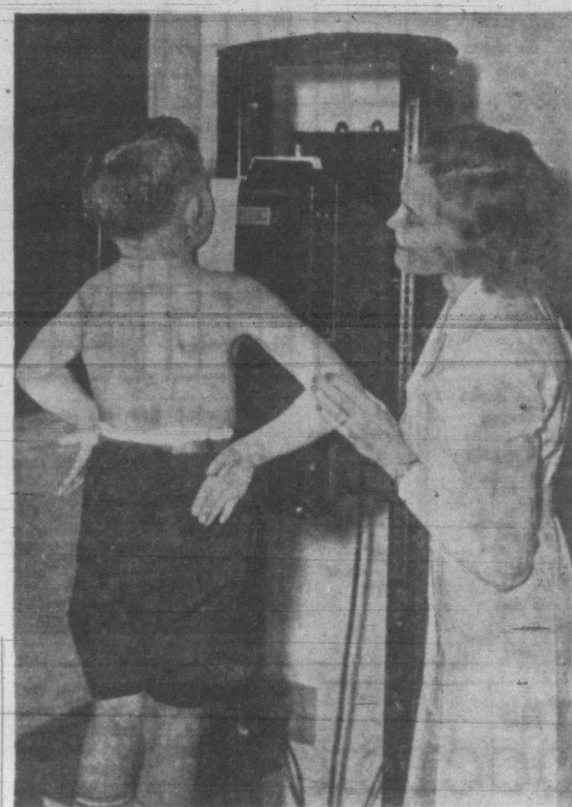

Christmas began early this year for members of the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria, who are sponsoring the 1947 Christmas Seal campaign, commenced today.

Soroptimists who agreed to sponsor the annual "stamp-out tuberculosis" drive for the first time this year, began campaign plans in June and have been devoting all their after-hour time this fall compiling lists of householders and putting Christmas seals in envelopes which were mailed out about two weeks ago.

The organization, assisted by its junior affiliate, the Venture Club, has started the 1947 campaign early in order that seals will be distributed in time for overseas Christmas mail.

Now the seals are mailed, Soroptimists will be on duty at all times at campaign headquarters, Room 7, 1230 Government Street, to receive money, sell additional seals, and give information. The drive to raise funds to combat public health enemy number four, tuberculosis, will be continued by Soroptimists through to January, when final receipts will be collected.

'Dim-out' Needed For Next Month

Large stores, service stations, industrial users and the city street lighting system will be asked to "dim out" during the late afternoons, between 4 and 5 o'clock until almost Christmas, E. N. Horsey, B.C. Electric Railway Company operations manager, said today, because of a temporary power shortage.

He did not anticipate that the "dim out" would last more than the hour, which is the peak period on the company's island power system.

The B.C. Electric has been supplying all of Vancouver Island between Cobble Hill and Parksville and will have to until power is available from the B.C. Power Commission's development at Campbell River.

Records indicated, Mr. Horsey said, that maximum requirement will be reached about Dec. 9. He said that as window lighting, advertising signs, theatre canopies, and decorative lighting are non-essential, the appeal to curtail power use during this hour is directed particularly to these services.

In aid of the Royal Oak Boy Scout Group a cribbage party will be held in the Women's Institute Hall, Royal Oak, Friday at 7.30. There will be four chicken prizes and other prizes.

Special Session Friday On Sale Of City's Water System

The City Council will hold its second session tomorrow afternoon on the knotty problem of what is to be charged for the water supply system in turning it over to a Metropolitan Water Board, Mayor Percy George announced Wednesday.

The council reached a stalemate Monday at the first council meeting when aldermen could not see their way clear to set a $3,000,000 price, as recommended by the water board, without more information.

Since Monday the comptroller's office has been working hard to get all necessary facts and figures to show the exact effect the sale of the supply system would have on the city's annual budget.

The DOCTOR Says:

TYPHOID FEVER PATIENTS MUST EAT WELL

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

Plenty of nourishing food is given to patients with typhoid fever. Before the modern method of feeding was started, they were underfed.

In typhoid fever, the small intestine and, occasionally, the large intestine, is ulcerated as the result of an infection by a special germ. The lymph glands, which drain the small intestine, become enlarged and the spleen increases greatly in size.

Patients with typhoid fever usually become ill gradually. They complain of nose bleeds, headache, cough and fever. Fever remains up for 10 days to two weeks, after which it gradually returns to normal.

Patients with typhoid fever require sufficient food to keep their weight up to normal in the presence of fever. Extra food makes the disease milder and shortens convalescence. Extra calories also lessen complications.

The average typhoid patient should eat three to four thousand calories a day, depending on his height and weight. Food should be liquid or soft and, preferably, sweetened with extra sugar.

Menu for a typhoid victim includes pasteurized milk, cream, well-cooked cereals, fruit juices, stewed fruits, soups thickened with rice or barley, soft-boiled, poached or soft scrambled eggs, toast and crackers. Finely chopped meat and scraped beef are given early in convalescence.

A variety of desserts are on the typhoid patient's menus, such as custard, ice cream, gelatin, bread pudding, junkets and jellies. Malted milk, milk shakes, eggnog and cocoa are on the beverage list.

PATIENTS NOT HUNGRY

Typhoid fever patients usually are not hungry, so that attractive menus must be provided. When the temperature has been normal for a week, tender meats, bacon, minced chicken and flaked fish are given.

As typhoid fever is often unrecognized until the infection has become well established, excessive weight loss may occur before the importance of extra feeding is realized. Too great an effort should not be made to bring the patient's weight back to normal quickly, if he is making satisfactory progress.

Question: A man 57 years old accidentally hurt his leg eight months ago. Since then, sores have broken out which cannot be healed. His physician told him that his difficulty was due to varicose veins. Is that possible?

Answer: Yes.

Olivier's Idea Filmed Henry V

The technicolor production of William Shakespeare's "Henry V," starring Laurence Olivier, begins a two-day engagement at the York Theatre with a matinee Dec. 1. It began as an idea in 1937, when the actor was appearing in a stage version of the play at London's "Old Vic" Theatre.

Many players have bewailed the inability, owing to the physical shortcomings of the theatre, of offering a truly impressive presentation of "Henry V." but Olivier was the first who decided to do something about it. He had appeared in a number of motion pictures and realized that the camera medium alone could provide the background for the broad and stirring scenes conjured up by Shakespeare.

Two Children Lose Lives In Fire That Completely Destroys Beaver Lake Home

Arthur Logie, fire inspector for Saanich, uses hose to put out smoldering remains of Beaver Lake home fire that claimed the lives of two children yesterday. Water was pumped from the lake.

The twisted remains of the crib in which the charred body of Cardna Rose Sadler, 17 months old was found by police and firemen. She was asleep upstairs in the one and one-half story house when flames enveloped the building. Efforts of her mother to save her proved fruitless.

At 2.05 this morning St. Joseph's Hospital officials reported that Wilfred T. Sadler, three-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sadler, died from serious burns suffered in the fire Wednesday afternoon which also claimed the life of his 17-month-old sister, Cardna Rose, and completely destroyed their parents' home on the shores of Beaver Lake, off East Saanich Road.

The one and one-half story wooden home, which took Mr. Sadler, an ex-serviceman, two years to complete, was employed as a summer concession to provide picnickers with ice cream, candy and other delicacies.

Due to the fact the mother and father are so distraught over the tragedy that has hit their family, Sgt. Cecil Pearce reported this morning Saanich Police had not up to that time secured a full picture as to what had caused the fire.

Sgt. Pearce said he had learned that Mrs. Sadler was outside, hanging up clothes on the line, when Betty Ann, her five-year-old daughter, rushed out of the house screaming to her mother the baby buggy was on fire in the kitchen.

Mrs. Sadler rushed in, lifted baby Wilfred out of the buggy and put out the flaming bedclothes with her hands. She suffered burns to the hands and face in doing this.

Mrs. Sadler believed the fire was out, and taking the injured baby in her arms hurried to a neighbor's home to telephone for assistance. Wilfred had been severely burned and needed medical assistance. Betty Ann accompanied her. However, she found no one home there and started back to her own residence.

On approaching her own home again, Mrs. Sadler saw to her horror that the house was a blazing inferno.

She left the baby in charge of her daughter and at a run climbed the outside stairway to try and rescue Cardna Rose, who had been left asleep in her crib upstairs.

Flames and smoke barred her way from getting through the door. Mrs. Sadler broke a window, but also found she could not get in. The room was completely enveloped in flames.

Securing baby Wilfred again, and with Betty Ann running beside her, Mrs. Sadler headed for East Saanich Road, about a quarter of a mile away by a winding dirt road.

A passing motorist immediately stopped and conveyed the three to the Saanich Police station at Royal Oak. Here the alarm was turned in and Constable Joseph Armstrong rushed them to hospital. Chief of Police J. Bull, Sgt. Pearce and juvenile officer, Bert Pearson rushed to the scene of the fire. On arrival the police and firemen found only a shell of the house left. Mrs. Sadler was released from the hospital within a couple of hours.

The charred body of Cardna Rose was found in the badly twisted crib.

How the first blaze started in the crib had not been determined up to this morning.

Sgt. Pearce reported that Mr. Sadler, who in the colder months of the year works for Bray's Transfer Company, spent almost two years erecting the lakeside home, devoting all his time to the structure.

Joint Commission Hears Arguments Of Wismer, Kenney

Decision by the International Joint Commission on Creston Reclamation Company's project to drain 7,760 acres of potential agricultural land is not expected for some months George P. Melrose, deputy lands minister, said today on his return from Creston, where hearings were heard recently.

Instructed by Lands Minister E. T. Kenney, Mr. Melrose presented a government brief on the company's application for permission to construct permanent works adjacent to Kootenay River and its east branch for reclamation of floodlands between the international boundary and Kootenay Lake near Sirdar.

Mr. Kenney stated today the land when developed would have a conservative value of $100 per acre, net the government $4,000 annually in land taxes alone, produce crops worth more than $200,000 annually and support additional population of 400 persons.

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer, with Game Commissioner J. G. Cunningham, also attended, their interest lying in the possible damage by the pro-

Army To Convert Coast Artillery

The 5th B.C. Coast Regt., R.C.A., with headquarters in Victoria, and the 15th Coast Regt., R.C.A., with headquarters in Vancouver, are to be converted from coast artillery to heavy anti-aircraft, it is reported by army headquarters in Ottawa.

The Victoria unit is commanded by Lt.-Col. G. F. Paulin, E.D., who has had long service in non-permanent artillery units in Victoria and active service during World War II. Lt.-Col. R. T. DuMoulin, E.D., commands the Vancouver artillery unit. He was a junior officer in the 15th Regt. before the last war.

Commanding officers of these units will be arranging for training of their personal in the new type of equipment and in the latest development in the important defence role of anti-aircraft artillery. Equipment and training material will be supplied as soon as possible.

ject to game-bird breeding grounds, but the lands department contended that even after being reclaimed, sufficient flat lands would be available where migratory waterfowl could thrive.

Saanich Farmer Found Guilty Of Damaging Crops

Geoffrey Vantreight, Saanich, was found guilty by an Assize Court jury yesterday of wilfully causing damage to crops of his neighbor and was fined $50 by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson or in default one month in jail.

The charge arose out of stump blasting operations carried out on the Vantreight's property during May of this year. Ian Wilson and his father, C. R. Wilson, manager of the adjoining farm, claimed damage to their crops.

Mr. Justice Manson in passing sentence remarked that the accused was not a criminal in the ordinary sense of the word, but was over-anxious to get on with the job. He urged the accused and the Wilsons—Ian and his father C. H. Wilson—to shake hands and be good neighbors.

'Smasher' Says Boy Reflecting Crowd's Joy At Procession

Long Ceremony's 1 Slight Mishap Goes Unnoticed

Millions Around World Send Word Of Good Wishes

By CANADIAN PRESS

Millions around the world today greeted the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh as a "fairy-tale romance."

From the countries of the British Commonwealth, from world capitals and from small towns and villages in many states thousands of words of good wishes to the royal couple poured into London.

In Canada hundreds of thousands rose early to listen to the broadcast of the ceremony. Most schools closed for the day. Viscount Alexander, the Governor General, sent official greetings from the Dominion, and Prime Minister King attended the wedding in Westminster Abbey as Canada's representative.

Here is how the wedding day was observed in various centres:

Johannesburg—Flags and bunting covered all government buildings.

New Delhi—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, prime minister of India, sent good wishes in messages accompanying gifts from his dominion.

Lahore—Liaquat Ali Khan, prime minister of Pakistan, cabled congratulations.

Athens—Ambassadors of Britain, Canada and South Africa gave a party. The Greek Parliament sent congratulations.

Tokyo—A. D. F. Gascoigne, head of the British liaison mission in Japan, proposed a toast to the royal couple at a British embassy reception.

SALUTES AT GIBRALTAR
Gibraltar—Guns at the Gibraltar fortress and ships of the Royal Navy in the harbor fired a royal salute, school children were on holiday.

Paris—The British colony arranged a full day of celebrations. President Vincent Auriol sent greetings.

Moscow—Sir Maurice Peterson, British ambassador, and Lady Peterson held a wedding reception.

Singapore—Royal Air Force units staged a special fly-past and display. Public buildings were floodlit.

Shanghai—A. G. N. Ogden, British Consul-General, gave a reception.

Canberra—The commonwealth parliament adjourned after agreeing on a loyal address to the bride and groom, to enable members to listen to broadcasts of the wedding. Factory sirens screeched and bunting fluttered in cities throughout Australia.

Londoners Pleased Royalty Unafraid

LONDON (CP)—Loyal Londoners beamed with pride on their King and Queen today as they drove to and from Westminster Abbey for the royal wedding. Said one cockney woman in the crowd:

"Our King and Queen always sit on the edge of the carriage seat so everybody can see 'em. Those wretched foreign royalty—they're always being potted at by some blighter or other in their own countries, and they're scared."

Boy King Taken From Procession

LONDON (CP)—The boy King Faisal of Iraq was taken temporarily out of the procession of royalty emerging from Westminster Abbey after the royal wedding today when a police man mistook him for an ambitious child who had slipped into the regal group.

King Faisal obediently followed the bobby's instructions and stepped aside before the mistake was corrected.

NEW MALDEN, Surrey—First prize in a charity draw was a window overlooking the route of the royal wedding procession.

By JAMES MCCOOK
LONDON (CP)—London crowds stood for hours red-nosed on cold, wet sidewalks to roar with delight today as the royal bride, Princess Elizabeth, went by amid the glitter of cavalry breast-plates and gold-laced uniforms.

Before stone-fronted Buckingham Palace crowds were ranged 12 deep by 8.30 a.m., ready to cheer anything, even ministry of works truck men spreading sand on the streets—who raised their caps in response to the applause.

The excitement reached its height when the King and Princess Elizabeth in the royal coach, hauled by the spanking Windsor greys and with a red-coated driver rigid in his seat, came from beneath the dark stone arch leading out of the inner court and headed for the Abbey. A small, pale-faced cockney boy, thrusting his head between two policemen, put the whole scene in focus:

"Oo, mummy, it's a smasher," he shouted to an unseen figure. Then a wave of surging people hid him and the cheers rose high.

It was London's brightest day since the war began, said a constable at the palace gate.

IN BRIGHT UNIFORMS

He looked with pride at the cavalrymen, for the war years dull in khaki but now again bedecked in silvery helmets, some with red plumes and some with white, their swords held at the salute as they sat their nervous black horses.

Some sat on the curbs all through the night and in the morning light their crumpled ground sheets and weary faces were belied by their smiles.

As the crowd grew passage became impossible. There were cheers for the unusually dense cloud of black smoke from the palace chimneys and then another for the brief appearance of a watery sun, followed by groans when it disappeared.

Negroes, Indians, Boy Scouts, Sea Rangers, numberless children and servicemen, North American visitors—spotted by the men's wide-brimmed hats and the women's long skirts—surged about the palace gates behind lines of bobbies.

Persistently they climbed on monuments and memorials and equally persistently policemen ordered them to get down.

GUARDS AT PALACE

Guardsmen marched to their posts along the route, each three paces apart, and their hands thumped and their rifles thrilled. The royal standard, rich in gold and red, flew proudly above the palace as the Princess prepared for her wedding.

Laughter came as the solemn sweepers carefully brushed the roadway before the massive iron gates. Hoarse officers and sergeant-majors put guardsmen in position about the gates with a snapping of polished boots and a clanging of rifle butts on sidewalks.

At 9.35 a.m. part of the crowd was allowed into the palace forecourt and a mad rush for the best places ensued. A woman carrying a baby and wearing a bright blue dress won a favored position and stood patiently for almost two hours, rocking the child in her arms. It waved its little hand at motorcars with the bridesmaids and the pages drove into the palace amid cheers that startled even the crowd-trained police horses.

GATES OPENED AT 9.50

The palace gates opened at 9.50 a.m. and among the first visitors was Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of Britain's wartime Prime Minister. She made the V-for-Victory sign as she entered.

As the cavalry escort formed lines before the palace they looked like fairyland characters against the drab background of austerity London.

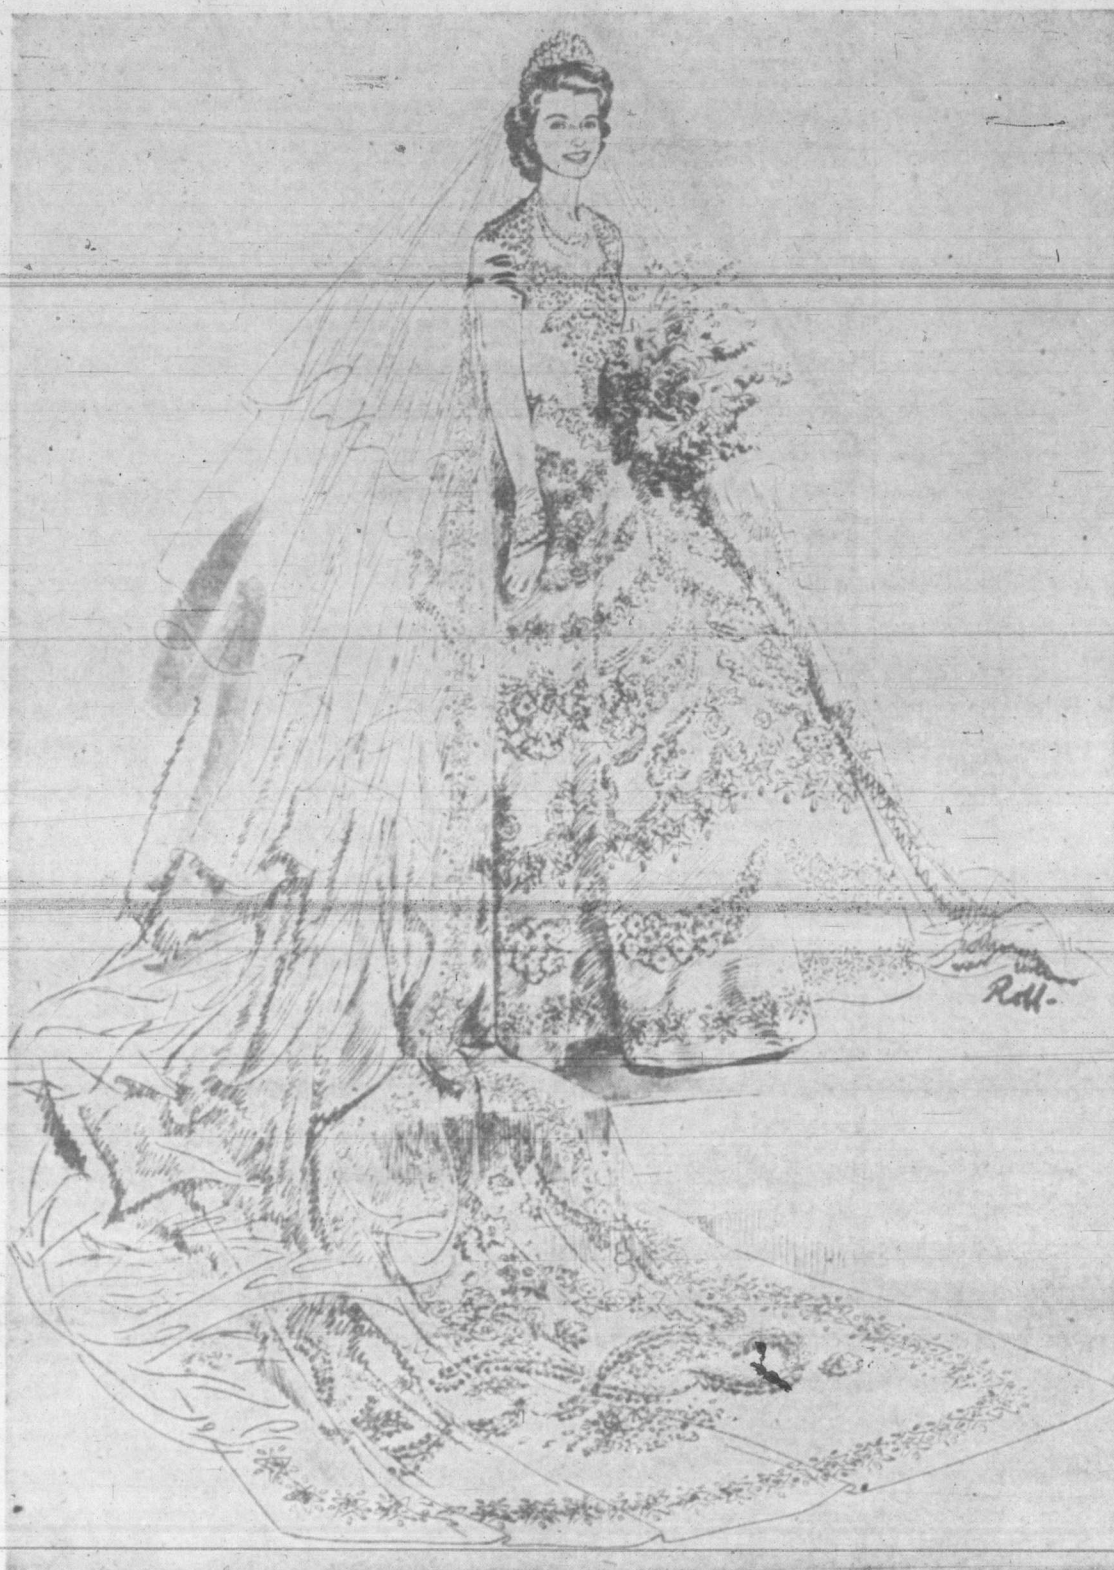

Swords flashed to the salute when the faint strains of God Save the King came from the inner courtyard of the palace and the Queen's coach came out at a brisk canter, Her Majesty waving to the crowd.

Silence fell as the big moment of the Princess's departure was awaited. Then the notes of the National Anthem touched off new cheers.

COACH MOVES QUICKLY

The bride's coach came out quickly, the red coats of the Household Cavalry escort bobbing under the arch, then out of the palace grounds past the Queen Victoria statue and on to the royal wedding procession.

Princess Elizabeth's Wedding Dress Embroidered With Seed Pearls, Crystals

—(NEA-ACME.)

This drawing shows how Princess Elizabeth looked in her wedding dress when she was married to the Duke of Edinburgh today. The wedding dress is a princess gown of ivory duchesse satin, cut on classic lines, with fitted bodice, long light sleeves, and full falling skirt.

The broad, heart-shaped neckline of the bodice was embroidered with seed pearls and crystals in a floral design.

From the pointed waistline, formed by a girdle of pearl-embroidered star flowers, the swirling skirt was hand-embroidered in a design inspired by the paintings of Botticelli, representing garlands of white York roses carried out in raised pearls and silk tulle attached to the shoulders, and was edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming the deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train.

A reversed type of embroidery, as employed on the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat, further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroideries. A voluminous bridal veil of crisp white tulle is held by a tiara of pearls and diamonds.

Alternating between the garlands of roses and wheat and forming a final border around the entire hem of the skirt were bands of orange-blossom and star flowers appliqued with, transparent tulle bordered with seed pearls and crystals.

The full court train was 15 feet long, of transparent ivory silk tulle attached to the shoulders, and was edged with graduated satin flowers, finally forming the deep border at the end of the fan-shaped train.

A reversed type of embroidery, as employed on the train by the use of applique satin star flowers, roses and wheat, further encrusted with pearl and crystal embroideries. A voluminous bridal veil of crisp white tulle is held by a tiara of pearls and diamonds.

Her new gown was of aquamarine chenille velvet and gold tissue. She was supremely poised, but from time to time betrayed those feelings she knows how to conceal by rapid turnings of her head, a shift from one foot to the other.

The bride's mother, the Queen, seemed at times to be not far from tears, but her emotions were always perfectly controlled. A smile rippled her face occasionally.

Her entry was one of the triumphs of the day, and women guests, themselves finely clothed, exclaimed their admiration of her apricot and gold lame gown ending in pointed train.

Watchers noted that the King, in the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, fidgeted with the handle of his sword or clenched his hands.

For the Duchess of Kent, a widow for more than five years, the ceremony held poignant memories of her own marriage in the autumn of 1934, the last royal wedding in Westminster Abbey.

Once the wedding service got under way and the congregation was seated in the Abbey, pomp seemed to fall away before the familiar simplicity of any ordinary wedding.

From the improvised press stand in the north stand, obliquely facing the altar, I watched the progress of the ceremony from the arrival of the first guest at 9 a.m. until 12.30 p.m., when the bride and bridegroom, preceded by church dignitaries, passed slowly along the main aisle and through the great west door.

While the early guests were assembling, a faint pallor at the south windows gave a false hope of sunshine. The vertical shadows deepened along the great pillars and in the still half-empty lantern—the area leading to the sanctuary—and in the transepts, the scarlet of uniforms blazed.

On the tapestried high altar the ancient gold plate of the Abbey glimmered in the rays of 100 flickering candles which lit up the plumed helmets of the scarlet-coated Household Cavalry ranged below the altar steps.

The illumination from bleak electric lights shone up the grey walls and into the faces of hundreds of spectators peering out from the arches of the triforium.

The gold lace of the ministers of state, the admirals and officials of the court filled the lantern area before the altar with a spot of brightness, oddly contrasting with the dull khaki of boy scouts moving among the congregation as ushers.

Just before 10 a.m. the tremulous chords of the great organ filled the Abbey, through which

First Of Honeymoon In Boyhood Home Of Groom, 'Broadlands'

LONDON (Reuter)—To the Duke of Edinburgh, Broadlands, in the ancient Hampshire market town of Romsey in the New Forest, where he is spending the first part of his honeymoon with Princess Elizabeth, is "home."

There, at the country estate of Earl Mountbatten, Governor-General of the Dominion of India, and Countess Mountbatten, the Duke, as Philip Mountbatten, spent most of his school holidays.

Princess Elizabeth visited Broadlands a year ago when she was bridesmaid to Lady Mountbatten's daughter, Patricia, who was married to Lord Brabourne in the Norman Abbey of Romsey. The Duke was an usher at the wedding.

The house, originally Elizabethan, but rebuilt in the 18th century, was taken over before the war as an annex to the Royal Hampshire Hospital and part of it is still used for that purpose.

Only a small section was retained by Lord and Lady Mountbatten. On the ground floor, they kept a large dining-room, a large drawing-room and a salon. Upstairs four main bedrooms are still in private use.

The royal honeymoon couple will use only this small wing. Broadlands was inherited by Lady Mountbatten from her father, Lord Mount Temple, who died in 1939.

MOVE TO SCOTLAND

The second part of the honeymoon will be spent on the royal estate at Deeside, Scotland, at Birkhall House, where Princess Elizabeth spent her autumn holidays as a child.

The estate is five miles from Balmoral Castle, where the Royal Family and the Duke spent a late summer holiday this year. The landscape, grand and stern, is dominated by the mountain mass of "Darrochmagar," 3,786 feet high. Snow lies in its deep crevasses all summer.

The three-story, ivy-covered 200-year-old Birkhall House is on the west side of the River Muick, which leads into the loch of the same name, an eerie sheet of water encircled by precipices.

King Edward VII, Princess Elizabeth's grandfather, bought the 6,500-acre estate in 1852 while he was Prince of Wales, to be near his mother, Queen Victoria, at Balmoral. It was his Scottish home for 30 years until he sold it to Queen Victoria in 1885 and it was added to the extensive Scottish royal estates.

WEDDING VOWS SAME FOR ROYALTY AS FOR OTHERS, ARCHBISHOP TELLS BRIDE, GROOM

LONDON (Reuter)—The Archbishop of York, Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, in his royal wedding address at Westminster Abbey today said the marriage service of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten was "in all essentials the same as it would be for any cottager who might be married this afternoon in some small country church in a remote village in the dales."

"The same vows are taken," he said. "The same prayers are offered and the same blessings are given. Everywhere and always this service is built around the taking of vows and the giving of a blessing."

The Archbishop continued: "In the presence of this congregation and in the hearing of an invisible audience in every part of the world you have now become man and wife."

MENTAL PATIENTS IN LONDON CROWD

LONDON (CP)—An early-morning thrill stirred the crowds waiting in London's misty dawn today for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the newly-created Duke of Edinburgh.

Two dangerous mental patients were captured in the throng. They had escaped from a military hospital.

"Never before has a wedding been followed with such interest by so many, and this has not been merely passive; it has been accompanied by the earnest prayer and hope that throughout your married life you may have every happiness and blessing."

"One of you, the daughter of our much loved King and Queen, has gained already by charm and simple grace the affection and admiration of all; and the other, as a sailor, has a sure place in the hearts of a people who know how much they owe to the strong shield of the Royal Navy."

PLEDGE FOR LIFE

"The vow was taken by each of you separately and individually, when before God and man you made a solemn and deliberate promise that come what may for better or for worse, in sickness and in health, you will always be true and faithful to one another until death us do part."

"You have made this great promise willingly and gladly because you have given yourselves to each other in unselfish love. Love must always be unselfish, and unselfishness is the true secret of a happy married life."

"It must show itself not only in great moments of heroic self-sacrifice, but continually in all the small problems and incidents of every day life."

"It means thoughtfulness and patience; ready sympathy and forbearance; talking over and sharing together the special interests and cares which each of you will have. And thus you will learn to bear one another's burdens as you walk on the road of life, making the journey together with happiness and hope."

"Through this unselfishness you will be able to make your home an oasis of peace and love in the midst of life which is certain to be crowded with public duties, and which will often be interrupted by exacting claims upon your time."

"A happy and unselfish home life of your own will enable you to enter more readily into the joys and sorrows of a people who have a deep and instinctive love for their homes."

"But this service is far more than the taking of solemn vows. It is one of blessing, for it is only through God's help that you can keep the promises you have made. God's blessing has been given to you that you may so live together in this life that in the world to come you may have everlasting life. The ever-living Christ is here to bless you, and He will always be near to help and guide you."

PLANE INVESTIGATED

LONDON (Reuter)—Police were put on the alert today while the royal wedding was in progress, when the drone of a plane, defying an order by the Ministry of Civil Aviation, was heard over the banded area around the path of the bridal procession.

An Air Ministry official later said the R.A.F. central flying control was making inquiries.

QUEEN MOTHER POISED

Some of Queen Mother Mary's 80 years seemed to fall away as she witnessed the marriage of the granddaughter she idolizes. She was a regal figure of bygone reigns.

Her new gown was of aquamarine chenille velvet and gold tissue. She was supremely poised, but from time to time betrayed those feelings she knows how to conceal by rapid turnings of her head, a shift from one foot to the other.

Poet Laureate Marks Princess' Wedding With Poem

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times today published a poem written by Britain's Poet Laureate, John Masefield, entitled "Lines on the Occasion of the Wedding of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth."

The poem, to mark today's royal wedding, followed a previous one made public Oct. 28, entitled "On the Coming Marriage of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth."

The "occasion" poem follows:
How many times, when London bells have rung
At royal weddings in those crowded ways
This air has trembled to the iron tongue:
The same home slugs as in those years.

Only, today, beside the human hope
That two young lovers, taking hand in hand
May tread the dark in which we mortals grope
The sure way for two hearts that understand

Beside that hope, mankind in its distress
Turns to the crown today as something fair,
Something divinely bright for men to bless,
A gleam, a star, to point men from despair.

An order and a beauty from of old
Set by its virtue above greed and hate,
A loveliness of living crowned with gold,
In all life's storm a standard to the state.

To such a crown all broken spirits run
And we who see this young face passing by
See her as symbol of a power eternal
And pray that heaven bless her till she die.

Disallow Calgary Grid Protest; Some Criticism

CALGARY (CP)—The Calgary Stampede Football Club's protest of their game in Winnipeg, Nov. 15, has been disallowed. John Thompson, president of the W.F.U., announced early today after admitting the playing field was not properly marked out.

The executive said this should have been protested prior to the game.

Thompson said in a statement issued on behalf of the W.F.U. executive: "In a wire vote of the W.F.U. executive completed early this morning after considering reports of the three game officials the majority vote disallowed Calgary's protest of the third championship game played at Winnipeg Nov. 15."

"The game officials agreed that the playing field was not properly marked out, that those lines marked in sawdust were not accurate or straight, which made matters very difficult in measuring yardage distances."

"In considering this point of Calgary's protest the majority ruling of the executive was that Calgary should have protested the condition of the playing field prior to the start of the game. There was no evidence submitted that they did so and consequently this point of the protest was thrown out. The other three points were disallowed."

After issuing the W.F.U. statement, Thompson released his personal opinion of the game and said the Winnipeg officials should be censured for the condition of the playing field.

Broken-Time Pay Again Hits Agenda Of A.A.U. Session

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Broken-time pay for amateurs for years one of the most controversial subjects among leaders in athletics will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, which opened today in this southwestern Alberta city.

A resolution asking that athletes be allowed to receive money for time away from their jobs is scheduled to be submitted by the Alberta branch of the union, and with many leaders opposed, the question could provide one of the highlight debates of the three-day convention.

The union now permits athletes to receive only traveling and hotel expenses, and this stand was largely responsible for the loss of its two largest affiliates—the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association.

Acceptance of money for lost work-time would bar an athlete from competing in the Olympic Games, but sponsors of the resolution apparently believe their decision and will recognize the Glasgow fighter as the champion.

The board also restored Paterson's British and Empire crown. He was stripped of all three titles July 30 for failure to defend his world championship against Dado Marino of Honolulu July 16.

Paterson did not weigh in for the bout with Marino, which already had been postponed once before when the champion reported he was ill.

The National Boxing Association in the United States also withdrew its recognition of Paterson as champion at that time and later recognized Rinty Monaghan of Belfast, who defeated Marino in a substitute bout.

On Oct. 14, shortly before that fight, Paterson won a court decision restraining the British Boxing Board from recognizing the winner as world titleholder.

Unless they suffer a complete collapse, Boston Bruins seem like a sure-fire bet to finish high in the National Hockey League standings. Currently, Bruins are riding along at the head of the pack. On the strength of a 7 to 2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, over whom they now boast a one-point edge. Detroit Red Wings are another point away in third place.

On top of their margin in points, Bruins also hold another advantage. They have two games in hand over Leafs and a one-game edge over Wings. Wings were nosed out 6 to 5 last night in Detroit by New York Rangers while Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens tied 2 to 2.

It's in the defensive department that Bruins stand out over the other clubs. Goalie Frankie Brimsek has been scored on only 22 times in a dozen games. Walter (Turk) Broda and Bill Durnan have the next best records. Broda has allowed 34 goals in 14 games while Durnan has been beaten the same number of times in 13 contests.

Boston ice has been a jinx to Leafs since March 6, 1945. Since then, the teams have engaged in 12 games in the Boston Garden and Leafs haven't won a single one although they have managed to tie four.

FAILED TO HOLD LEAD

Last night, it looked for a while as if Leafs might break the spell Bruins have cast over them at home. Leafs held a 2 to 1 lead after the first period, but Bruins counted in each of the last two periods.

The two krauts—Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt—paced Bruins to the triumph with three points apiece. Dumart had two goals, on which Schmidt had assists, and also helped in a goal scored by Schmidt. Bruins' other goals went to Pete Babando, Don Gallinger, Ed Harrison and Wally Wilson.

Don Metz and Joe Kluckay connected for Toronto's first-period scores.

Wings lost a chance to move into a first place tie with Bruins when they dropped a home contest to Rangers. Grant Warwick fired the winning goal in the third period.

New York's other goals were marked up by Edgar Laprade and Rene Trudel, who each tallied twice, and Eddie Kullman. Detroit's scores went to Ted Lindsay, Red Kelly, Doug McCaig, and Bep Guidolin.

MAJOR PENALTIES SEEN

The punch line of Elmer Lach, Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Toe Blake contrived to gain Canadiens a draw with Hawks. Richard came through with the game-tying goal only 63 seconds from the finish with Blake and Lach drawing assists. Blake scored in the first period on help from Richard and Glen Harmon.

Hawks' goals were scored by Adam Brown and Doug Bentley. Brown was tagged with a misconduct penalty in the second period for arguing over a minor incurred for charging. Two majors, to Bob Goldham and Harmon, also were handed out among a total of 17 penalties.

Hawks disclosed following the game that they are replacing Emile Francis in the nets. His place is to be taken by Doug Jackson of Kansas City Pla-Mors of the United States League. Francis, who will join the Pla-Mors, went to Hawks last season from the senior amateur Regina Capitals.

K.V.'s Outlast Vets To Capture Cage Tilt

K.V.'s moved to the fore in the race for senior A hoop honors last night by taking a 41 to 35 decision from the improving Canadian Legion quintette in the feature of the three-game program.

Trailing by 10 points at the end of the first quarter and at one time in the third period behind, 33 to 16, the Vets came up with one of the best rallies of the season to force K.V.'s to hold on, but the big deficit was too much to overcome and last year's champions dropped their third start of the campaign.

Poor shooting, especially in the first period when they could only connect for one field goal and four free shots, was the downfall of the Vets. Losers had plenty of shots in the opening canto but the ball wouldn't drop. Meanwhile K.V.'s were deadly with long one-handers as they built up a 10-point lead.

K.V.'s added one point to their lead in the second period by outscoring the losers eight points to seven to lead 24 to 13 at the breather. Four quick baskets plus a free shot with Fred Ranson and Ron Castner supplying the punch to one field goal and a gift toss by Legion put K.V.'s in front by 17 points shortly after the third period got under way.

LEGION RALLY
Legion rallied with seven straight points before the end of the frame and then outscored the eventual winners 12 points to eight in the fourth period.

Fred Ranson with 12 points and Ralph Baxter with eight were high-point men for K.V.'s with Sonny Walker topping the Legion parade with 13.

Ernie Fox, lanky bucket ace of the Vets, missed last night's tilt but Coach Alex McKeachie brought up Don Hall and Jim Ranson of the intermediate ranks as replacements and both men turned in creditable performances, each counting four points.

MacDonald Scoring Star As Vic High Blacks Win

Victoria High's high-flying Blacks handed Ken Brown's Mount View fifteen its first defeat of the current interhigh senior B rugby race to displace Saanichton from top spot in the standings. Blacks whitewashed last year's champs, 11 to 0, to hold a one-point lead at the top of the heap.

Blacks opened strongly and at the three-minute mark, Pete Fowles booted a spot kick from 20 yards out. Although Mount View fought hard, Blacks successfully held the edge in territorial play. Near the 20-minute mark, Walt MacDonald dribbled a loose ball over the line, putting Vics away 6 to 0. Losers forced the play for the remainder of the half, and Marv Tait just missed a score when his penalty kick from the 27-yard marker fell outside the post.

Colwood Cagers Defeat West Road

Four former stars of West Road basketball teams returned to the hoop wars in a Saanich and suburban league match at Colwood last night but to no avail, as the home squad upset the visitors to the tune of 43 to 37.

Making their appearance in uniform once again were Ralph and Bud Mitchell, Chuck Cunningham and Handy. Ralph Mitchell and Kents topped West Road scorers with 12 points, while Joe Bryant paced the Langford-Colwood squad with 14 points. LeQueune with 13 points and Duncan with 10 also starred for the winners.

CHANCES of arranging an exhibition basketball game featuring Vancouver Hornets of the Pacific Coast Professional League and the local Y.M.C.A. senior A club look mighty slim today after a talk with Art Chapman, manager of the pros. It was planned to have the affair set up for the benefit of the injured players' fund. But local officials attempting to make arrangements for the exhibition, forgot one important item—a cut-out of the receipts for the pro players. In discussing such a game today, Chapman said: "After we had taken our slice of the gate there would be mighty little left for any charity."

SOME FANS may be tempted to take the wrong viewpoint as far as the professional players are concerned. One thing is all-important: Members of the Hornets are playing basketball to make money. Any time their services are required they expect to be paid off. Sentiment does not enter into the picture. Basketball to them is strictly a business and they play it that way. Chapman and his players are paid salaries for participation in the Coast League campaign and, if called on to participate in extra games, they expect to get additional pay. It would be a treat to watch the Hornets in action but, with the limited seating capacity available at the High School gym, such a promotion appears out of the question.

ONE OFFICIAL of the local association, Secretary Hank Casillo, has still not given up in attempting to arrange a game with the Hornets. "I agree the Hornets are entitled to a split of the gate and will contact Chapman to learn just what they want to turn out for the exhibition," he said. Action, if any, will have to be taken quickly as the Hornets will pack up and return to Vancouver a week today.

VANCOUVER reports have owner Coley Hall worried over the rather poor showing of his Canucks in the Coast Hockey League. Seems that Hall laid out quite a bit of cash to sign new players this season and can't understand why he hasn't come up with a winner. The belligerent Hall appears to be doing a little worrying about his investment. Maybe Hall is just learning it may not have been such a smart move when he severed his hockey partnership with Paul Thompson. The former Chicago Black Hawk star did pretty well for the partner ship while acting as coach of the Canucks.

Boston's Bob Elliott Voted Most Valuable

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Elliott, heavy-hitting third baseman of Boston Braves, today was proclaimed the National League's most valuable player for 1947 by a vote of a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association.

In becoming the first member of a non-pennant-winning team to gain that distinction since Ernie Lombardi of the fourth-place Cincinnati Reds won the award in 1938, Elliott also had the honor of becoming the first third baseman in either league to win the title since its inception in 1911.

The 31-year-old native of San Francisco, whose great work both at bat and in the field was largely responsible for Boston's third-place finish last season, is only the second Brave thus honored. The other was Johnny Evers, of Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance fame back in 1914.

HOLDS BIG MARGIN

Elliott, a converted outfielder who made the shift to the hot corner in 1942, polled a total of 205 votes in the balloting for the Judge Kershaw Mountain Landis memorial award to win by a comfortable margin over Ewell Blackwell, right-handed Cincinnati ace pitcher of no-run, no-hit fame. Blackwell finished second with 175 points.

Johnny Mize, slugging first baseman of New York Giants, was third with 144, and catcher Bruce Edwards led a sizable delegation of champion Brooklyn Dodgers with 140 points.

Twenty-six players figured in the voting, an unusually low total. Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's negro rookie first baseman, finished fifth with 106 points.

Cleveland-St. Louis In Baseball Deal

CLEVELAND (AP)—President Bill Veeck of Cleveland Indians today announced the trade of right-handed pitcher Bryan Stephens and rookie outfielder Joe Frazier to St. Louis Browns for veteran hurler Bob Muncie and outfielder-first baseman Walt Judnick. The Indians also gave the Browns a "substantial amount" of cash in the baseball deal, Veeck said.

The amount of cash involved in the deal, the third player transaction in which the Browns have participated within a week, was reported to be $25,000.

Big Four Gridders Dominate All-Stars

TORONTO (CP) — A high-powered vehicle, football's 1947 all-eastern machine rolled off the assembly line today with the majority of its parts taken from the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Ten of the men chosen for the first team by football writers and coaches in eight eastern cities, in a poll by The Canadian Press, came from the Big Four. The two remaining places went to Ontario Rugby Football Union players.

The senior intercollegiate circuit lifted three places on the second all-star team.

The vote, weighted to give equal voting strength to each city, saw Ottawa Rough Riders capture four places on the first team. Toronto Argonauts, victors over Riders in the Big Four final, took three places while Montreal Alouettes managed two and Hamilton Tigers one. Ottawa Trojans and Toronto Balmy Beaches brought recognition to the O.R.F.U. by taking the other positions.

The selections follow:

FIRST TEAM

Tony Golab, Riders, half; Virgil Wagner, Alouettes, half; Royal Copeland, Argos, half; Joe Krol, Argos, half; Frank Filchok, Tigers, quarter; Don Loney, Riders, snap; Bill Zock, Argos, inside; Don Mackenzie, Balmy Beach, inside; Herb Trawick, Alouettes, middle; Hank Christman, Riders, middle; Joe Farley, Trojans, outside; Bert Haigh, Riders, outside.

SECOND TEAM

SEVEN REPEATERS

For seven of those selected for the first team, it was almost "old home week" since they had been chosen on the mythical squad last season. The repeaters were Wagner, Krol, Copeland, Zock, Line-up of the Scots was announced today as follows: Bobby Newbold; Erling Storness and Johnny Webber; Wes Henderson, Nick Glover and Johnny Newbold; Jimmy Greig, Don Matheson, Tubby McLean, Hugh Greer and Cece Goodheart. Reserves, Lee Enefer and Dave Simpson.

It was announced today that Jackie Jones of St. Andrews had transferred to Vancouver St. Saviours.

The United will hold a light workout at Athletic Park tonight at 1 in final preparation for the fixture.

Dinny Pails Joins Pro Tennis Ranks

CHICAGO (AP) — Dinny Pails, 26-year-old Australian tennis champion, Wednesday agreed to join the professional ranks at a $20,000 annual salary, plus a percentage agreement.

The Australian will team with Bobby Briggs and Jack Kramer, and another star to be signed, on an exhibition tour opening Dec. 26 in New York's Madison Square Garden.

GRID WORKOUT

Mustangs will practice at Macdonald Park tonight at 7.

Trawick, Christman and Haigh. Two others—Loney and Mackenzie—moved up to first-team status in 1947 after selection on the second team in 1946.

Krol, Argos' great payoff backfielder, came closest to unanimous selection, polling 410 of a possible 420 points. Next most popular choice in the backfield brigade, but still a fair distance off, was the fleet, driving Wagner, who emerged as the east's top scorer with 71 points.

College To Meet J.B.A.A. In Rugby Match Saturday

One of the top rugby attractions of the young season will take place at Macdonald Park Saturday at 2:30 with undefeated J.B.A.A. playing Victoria College in a senior tussle.

Bays will be shooting for their third win of the campaign but the speedy students have other ideas and will be out to reverse the 5 to 0 defeat handed them by the league leaders earlier in the season.

Play in this game and succeeding tilts will be closely watched by Crimson Tide selectors.

College and J.B.A.A. will clash in the intermediate game at 2:15.

Possibility of the R.C.A.F.-R.C.N. intermediate squad joining the league in the second half of the schedule was expressed by league officials yesterday.

N.H.L. Marksmen Garner 58 Points; Richard Makes Gain

Calgary, Regina In Ice Victories

CALGARY (CP) — Showing marked improvement over their last meeting in Calgary but with both clubs still lacking finish around the nets, Calgary Stampedeers eked out a 2 to 1 victory over Edmonton Flyers Wednesday night to consolidate their second-place position in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

A capacity crowd of 5,200 saw Stampedeers go ahead 1 to 0 in the first period, drop back into a 1 to 1 tie in the second and then take the decision in the third when veteran Bunny Dame caught a flying puck and slipped it into the Edmonton net.

At Regina the Capitals strengthened their lead atop the league with a 6 to 5 overtime victory over Saskatoon Quakers before a crowd of more than 2,500 fans.

The victory gave Capitals a three-game lead over the second-place Calgary.

Peggy Ann Garner In 'Junior Miss'

Peggy Ann Garner's sensational performance in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" not only won for her unprecedented acclaim, but also her first starring role, the lead part in 20th Century-Fox's new hit, "Junior Miss," which opens today at the York Theatre. In her current role, Peggy Ann blossoms into a vibrant, jive-talking, on-the-beam junior miss who is just beginning to learn that boys can be a pain in the heart instead of the neck.

Stewart Thwarted As Small Town Boy

Drama, comedy and fantasy are combined to furnish delightful entertainment in Frank Capra's "It's a Wonderful Life," now at the Oak Bay Theatre. James Stewart and Donna Reed are starred.

Stewart plays a small-town boy whose efforts to get away and see the world are always thwarted by the demands made upon him by the townspeople. Miss Reed is seen as his childhood sweetheart, whom he finally marries.

Wheat Harvesting In Film Headlines

High-grading is a term usually associated with gold mining, but it also plays a vital, although little publicized, role in the harvesting of wheat.

Houston Branch authored Paramount's "Wild Harvest," under the title of "The Big Harvest."

A special scene was written into the movie version of Branch's story depicting Robert Preston as a member of Alan Ladd's combine crew, who succumbs to the lure of extra money by short-changing farmers and selling wheat to black-market operators. Preston and Ladd are co-starred with Dorothy Lamour and Lloyd Nolan in "Wild Harvest," now at the Capitol Theatre.

Wells' comedy, "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," which brings Roland Young to the Dominion Theatre.

The scene shows Young, as the miracle-maker of the title, calling a meeting of hundreds of world leaders in a great marble-floored hall.

The production was produced by Alexander Korda and is released through Film Classics.

ATLAS THEATRE

"The Sea Hawk," the glorious saga of a Robin Hood of the seas, with Errol Flynn in the title role, begins a special return engagement today at the Atlas Theatre.

Directed by Michael Curtiz from an original screenplay by Howard Koch and Seton I. Miller, "The Sea Hawk" features Claude Rains, Brenda Marshall, Alan Hale, Donald Crisp and Flora Robson, with a supporting cast of thousands. Original music for the film was composed by Erich Wolfgang Korngold.

PLAZA THEATRE

To accent Ella Raines' eyes for a scene of Universal-International's "The Web," now at the Plaza Theatre, Director Mike Gordon and cameraman Irving Glassberg had the electrical department design two pinpoint spotlights. The lights, trained on her optics during a suspenseful scene, bring out a sparkle that will send chills racing up the spines of most moviegoers.

Edmond O'Brien, William Bendix and Vincent Price co-star with Miss Raines in "The Web."

'Open City' Drama Of Nazi Manhunt

"Open City," which opens Dec. 1 at the Rio Theatre, is an exciting drama of a Nazi manhunt. The suspense derives in the traps set by the Gestapo to catch Rome's underground leaders. The film is a stirring, deeply moving tale of love and hate, courage and cowardice. It is frank when frankness is demanded, warmly tender when the love story is told, brutal when the brutality of the Nazis is revealed.

ROYAL THEATRE

Believe it or not, girls, the simple coiffures are the most difficult to create for the screen.

Movie hair stylist Irene Brooks, who should know, claims she and hairdresser Gladys Witten were desperate when trying to keep Linda Darnell's hair stringy for a prison scene in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Forever Amber," which, presented by Darryl F. Zanuck, was photographed in color by technicolor, and is now at the Royal Theatre. Linda plays the title role in the screen version.

of Kathleen Winsor's sensational best-seller, with Cornell Wilde, Richard Greene and George Sanders also starred in important parts.

Cathedral Bells Will Peal Tonight To Mark Wedding

The bells of Christ Church Cathedral will peal from 7.30 until 9 o'clock this evening and again from 9.30 until 9.45 to mark the marriage of Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, Dean Spencer Elliott announced today.

This morning at Holy Communion at 8 in the cathedral, the royal wedding was observed by the addition of several petitions from the marriage service.

The final 15-minute peal of the bells will be broadcast, followed by an address over the local radio station by Dean Elliott.

The bells of Christ Church Cathedral are an exact replica of those at Westminster Abbey, and will echo the peal today ringing out over London.

In Vancouver too, both the Roman Catholic and Anglican Cathedrals rang out chimes during the morning. The Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Holy Rosary rang out at intervals for an hour beginning at 10 o'clock, while the Anglican Church of St. James rang for 20 minutes at noon.

Dean Elliott recalled that the chancel rails in Christ Church Cathedral are those in front of which the parents of today's bride, the King and Queen, were married on April 26, 1923. The chancel rails were presented to the cathedral by Westminster Abbey.

City Gets $197,587 Cheque From Province

Mayor Percy George today received the cheque for $197,587 from the provincial government on the relief refunding.

In the accompanying letter it was stated, "This, it is understood, will be used in the repayment of outstanding principal on unemployment relief."

The city last year refunded the $270,000 owing on relief loans from the provincial government, and the refunded money is to be used over a five-year period to make debt repayment.

A preview of the National Film Board's 15-minute film "The Postman," highlighting the daily work of the letter carrier, will be presented at the Post Office before postal staffs and employees at 4 this afternoon.

Teachers Cautioned To Use Less Light

The plea of the South Vancouver Island branch of the B.C. School Trustees before the Public Utilities Commission last week for reduced light and power rates met with scant success Austin I. Curtis, chairman, reported to the school board.

The point made by the trustee representatives, who included Mr. Curtis and T. L. Christie, secretary, was that the schools used very little light and no power during the peak load hours between 4 and 6 in the afternoon.

This was immediately countered by one member of the Public Utilities Commission who commented that he frequently passed schools during that period and noted they were "a blaze of light."

The result is that a circular is being sent out to all school principals and janitors instructing them that use of light in classrooms and auditoriums after school hours unnecessarily must be stopped.

Teachers are cautioned to put out the lights when leaving their classrooms, and janitors are to have lights only in the room in which they are actually working.

Williams Takes Out First Papers; Dewar Runs Again

Ald. Ed Williams was first to take out nomination papers for City Council today for the forthcoming civic elections in December.

Today Ald. R. A. C. Dewar announced he would seek re-election. He is the fourth of the retiring aldermen to seek re-election. Ald. W. L. Morgan is the only member of the present council retiring from civic politics.

Ald. Dewar has served 22 years on the City Council, first holding office in 1921. He served for 20 years continuously, retiring in 1941. He re-entered civic politics two years ago. During the past two years he had been chairman of the lands, zoning and housing committee, and also the arena committee.

Others who have already announced their candidature are Ald. B. J. Gadsden, Ald. Margaret Christie, Reg Clarke Sr., G. H. Williams, Mrs. Sally Rogers and T. A. Cresswell.

There is, as yet, no hint of any opposition to Mayor Percy George for his fourth consecutive term of office.

Marshall Flies To Conference Of Big Four Foreign Ministers

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Marshall leaves for London today to put United States policy toward Russia to a new and perhaps crucial test.

Traveling in President Truman's original plane, the Sacred Cow, Marshall scheduled a 1 p.m. takeoff for the Big Four foreign ministers' conference opening next Tuesday.

Marshall's announced goal is the same elusive objective of four previous sessions: (1) agreement with Foreign Minister Molotov on a peace treaty with Austria and (2) a decision on at least the main outlines of a German settlement.

But while those are the immediate problems, the underlying issue is the mounting tension between Russia on the one hand and the western powers on the other.

Pointing up that issue, the Brookings Institution, a private research and educational agency, declared in a report made public today that a continuation of the present "nightmare" of big

Stolen Goods Identified In Assize Court

Trial of John M. Webster, charged with unlawfully retaining possession of a record player, a suitcase and socks, property of Bert Yeswick, opened before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson in Assize Court today.

The accused, without counsel, is conducting his own case. W. C. Moresby, K.C., is Crown prosecutor.

Mr. Yeswick testified that upon entering his room at the Westholme Hotel Oct. 25, he discovered his personal belongings were missing. He identified a suitcase, socks and a phonograph as his own.

Under cross-examination, the accused asked the witness if his name had been mentioned at a trial of a man who was convicted of stealing his personal belongings. The witness replied negatively.

Edith Wilson identified socks which were allegedly found in the possession of the accused as the ones she had made for Mr. Yeswick.

B. E. Dow, caretaker at the Salvation Army, told the court that the accused, accompanied by another man, had taken a room at the Salvation Army headquarters. He said one of the pair carried a suitcase similar to the one produced in court.

The case is continuing.

1,000 Children Sing In Festival At Cloverdale School

More than 1,000 children from Quadra, Cloverdale, Doncaster and Gordon Head Schools participated in the third day of the school music festival Wednesday at Cloverdale School, presenting both afternoon and evening concerts.

E. Hulett, adjudicator, in his comments, expressed himself as well pleased with the quality of the children's singing, and had high praise for the teachers.

This is the third year that a music festival has been held in the Saanich schools, but the first year the Greater Victoria schools have participated, John Gough, municipal inspector of schools explained.

There was an enthusiastic audience of 350 parents and friends at the evening session, at which Trustee M. P. Paine made introductory remarks.

Choral groups from Cloverdale, Doncaster and Quadra schools presented numbers and were assisted by a string trio composed of Edith McGill, Margaret McGill and Marilyn Bacon. The Grade IV rhythm band from Cloverdale School under Miss K. Horner proved popular with the audience.

H. J. Bigsby, music supervisor for the schools, led the audience in community singing, which is being featured at all the concerts.

Arrangements for the concerts were under E. G. Woodward, G. S. Taylor, R. Grubb and Mr. Bigsby.

Friday the fourth day of the festival will be held at Monterey School with Willows, Margaret Jenkins, Bank Street and Monterey school children participating. The evening concert at the Monterey centre will not be held until the following Friday, Nov. 28.

Must Keep Signals At E. & N. Crossing

The Board of Transport Commissioners today advised the City Council that it would not approve the removal of the diamond at the crossing of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway at Esquimalt Road and Russell Street. The commissioners suggested that they would be willing to hear further submissions from the city as to why the present signals should be removed, and failing any such submissions by Dec. 3, would assume that the city will continue its contributions toward the upkeep of the signal.

It was explained in the letter that although train traffic at the crossing was light, switching movements present a source of danger to the heavy vehicular traffic on the road, which has increased because of the new bus service.

The chief engineer said a "stop" sign would impede traffic too much during the busy periods and would tend to be disregarded. He also stated that the proposed installation of continuous flashing amber light is not a type of protection approved under the Transport Board's standards since it gives no warning of approaching trains.

Round World Fliers Nearing Last Hop

EDMONTON (CP)—Northwest Command, Royal Canadian Air Force, reported today that round-the-world fliers George Truman and Clifford Evans expect to take off from Fort St. John, B.C., tomorrow for Edmonton, weather permitting.

The fliers were reported in good health but in need of a haircut and shave. They plan to remain in Edmonton from one to three days.

They said they had encountered the worst weather of their entire flight since their arrival in Alaska and Canada.

Royal Newlyweds Need Ration Books

ROMSEY, Hampshire, Eng. (CP)—Frank Randall, long-time butcher at Broadlands, estate of Earl Mountbatten where Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh start their honeymoon, fretted today over a butcher's problem.

Scanning the stock of food laid in for the newlyweds, Randall said: "I hope they bring their ration books with them—I had to get the groceries on tick."

City police today are checking to learn the names of the group of small boys who assaulted Audrey Johnson, 104 Dallas Road, eight years old, last night and left her with a bruised right eye, left cheek and leg.

No Immediate Shortage In Citrus Fruits, Wholesalers Say

Victoria householders need not fear any immediate shortage of oranges, lemons or grapefruit, wholesalers announced this morning. There are plentiful supplies of these fruits on hand at the present time and dealers will be bringing shipments in on a quota basis.

Bananas, short for some time, will also be brought in on a quota basis. The second carload of bananas to arrive this week is expected tomorrow.

Wholesalers report a good supply of pears on hand. California dates, however, hit hard by the government embargo, are expected to last until Christmas only.

Christmas cranberries are likely to be short this year.

Lauritz Melchior, The Incredible Dane, Sings Here Monday

Incredible is indeed the word for Lauritz Melchior, from the six-foot-four of his 230-pound bulk gambling about the opera stage in the scant deerskin tunic of the young Siegfried, to the four-line title on his visiting card and the eight shining gold medals from six European monarchs that glisten beside his lapel for all full-dress occasions.

From the 163 performances of "Tristan" he has sung in all the leading opera houses of the world to the four dozen meticulously mounted and tagged pairs of antlers on the walls of one of the rooms of his home, he is also incredible.

Singing for the first time in Victoria, next Monday night at the Bay Street Armories, Mr. Melchior does nothing in a small way. He is traveling with a 40-piece orchestra and two chartered planes to transport them all.

That the Melchior voice seems only to improve with the years is all the more incredible when one faces the fact that it is probably the least pampered voice in the opera. No sprays, no lozenges or other pre-performance precautions for Melchior—although he sometimes finds a thick steak sandwich and a cigar effective in tiding him through a "Lohengrin" or "Götterdämmerung."

Tickets for Melchior's concert are on sale now at Fletcher's

Group Debates Marshall Plan

The Marshall Plan for establishing economic stability in Europe was both applauded and condemned by members of the panel discussion group which met Wednesday night at Central Junior High School under the auspices of the United Nations Society of Victoria to discuss "The Marshall Plan—Will It Work?"

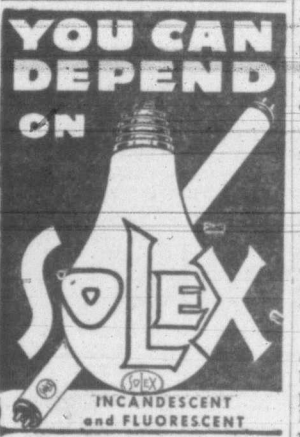

Prof. J. Aitchison, chairman of the group, approved of the Marshall scheme as a means of controlling the spread of Communism in Europe. He said Communism is an active force which can only feed on people's fear and economic insecurity. He said the Marshall Plan would do away with such fear and insecurity.

Two Victoria College students, Reginald Roy and Douglas Leask, both war veterans, disagreed on the merits of the Marshall Plan.

Mr. Roy noted operation of the plan would cost $20,000,000, but said the money would be well spent. He said if steps were not taken to keep peace in Europe now, it would take three billion dollars to fight another war.

Mr. Leask was opposed to the Marshall Plan because he believed it was just another scheme of "big business." He said he believed Henry Wallace's policy, if put into operation, would do more to preserve peace than the Marshall Plan.

"The Marshall Plan is not perfect, but if it is not instituted, western ideologies will be disavowed in Europe and Communism will reap the harvest," Mr. Aitchison contended.

Trades Council Here Endorses Wilkinson For Labor Board

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night unanimously endorsed the nomination of its secretary, George A. Wilkinson, as a member of the labor relations board which Labor Minister Gordon S. Wismer is expected to announce shortly.

The purpose of the board, provided for in the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act, 1947, is to rule on questions concerning unions in cases before the courts and on other matters. In trials concerning strikes to date the acting labor minister or labor minister has sat as the board.

Nomination of Mr. Wilkinson was made some weeks ago after Mr. Wismer had asked A.F.L. union chiefs in British Columbia to submit names for the board. The C.C.L. union chiefs and representatives of manufacturers were likewise asked to submit nominations.

It is understood that the board will be composed of five members, one A.F.L. nominee, one C.C.L. nominee, two nominees of industry and an independent chairman.

The council was told that a report of the Trade Union Research Bureau showed that the wholesale price of No. 1 grade red cedar shingles had increased from $2.30 per square to $8 per square, an increase of $5.70 or 247 per cent per square. During the same period wages of all shingle mill labor had increased by 52 cents per square. The labor cost of the cedar logs bought by the shingle manufacturers also increased by 44 cents per square.

Thus during the eight-year period from 1939-1947, of every $5.70 more per square received by shingle manufacturers all labor involved in the manufacture received an additional 96 cents per square.

The council went on record in supporting Victoria teachers in their efforts to secure recognition of all services in B.C. in securing seniority.

Charlie Davis was named delegate to the annual meeting of the Victoria Recreation Council to be held Nov. 25 in the City Hall.

New delegates seated were: T. A. Carrington, United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union; Mrs. T. Politano, Theatrical Assistants' Guild.

Victim Of Accident Awarded $10,000 In Damage Action

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson, in a judgment handed down Wednesday, awarded general damages of $10,000, special damages as claimed and continuing special damages to be determined by the Registrar of the Supreme Court, to Kathleen Bracker, who sustained serious injuries as the result of an accident which occurred when a taxi, in which she was a passenger, went out of control on Craigflower Road.

The defendants in the damage action were Cecil and Margaret Rhodes, William Heller, Fred Tubman and George Haslam.

In handing down judgment, Mr. Justice Manson pointed out that the plaintiff, passenger in the taxi driven by Haslam, had sustained multiple fractures of a most serious character and "long and repeated hospitalization had been necessary."

The accident occurred on April 30, 1945. Evidence showed that

According to the plaintiff, who testified at the trial some months ago, the car was traveling between 50 and 60 miles an hour and the driver had been asked just before the accident to reduce speed.

Her husband, Cecil Rhodes, was the owner and with Heller, Tubman and Lorraine Ferriday were partners in the Beacon Taxi and that Haslam was their servant or agent at the time of the accident.

No Trustee Vote Likely This Year

It appears unlikely that anything will be done before the forthcoming municipal elections to provide the residents of View Royal district with a vote in election of school trustees.

An application for some change in regulations to provide the residents with votes has been before the provincial education department for some weeks. It appears now that the inclusion of View Royal residents would require an amendment of the Public Schools Act, an official of the department said today.

The school board suggested that for the purpose of election of school trustees View Royal electors be permitted to vote with those of one of the municipalities which form the district—either Victoria, Esquimalt or Saanich. Oak Bay has not been considered because it is not adjacent to the View Royal district.

Officials of the education department said that the problem was a knotty one and some thought had been given it. So far as is known no other district of the province presents a similar problem.

It was suggested by provincial education department officials that amendment of the Schools Act might be effected at the next session of the B.C. Legislature to give View Royal residents the vote, but this would be too late for the forthcoming municipal elections at which trustees would be named.

In the meantime it was suggested that some provision might be worked out through mutual arrangement of the district residents and one of the municipalities.

Japanese Mayor Seeks Resumption Of Canadian Trade

A suggestion that a resumption of trade between Japan and Canada be started is contained in a letter from the mayor of Nagoya to the City Council.

The mayor of Nagoya included a long list of items which are produced in his city, including many types of rivets, bolts, cutlery, needles, razors, machines, tools of all kinds, electric bulbs, leathers, toilet articles, insect powder, tooth-paste, inks, pottery of all kinds, ribbons and laces, cotton towels, table linens, pencils, ropes, shoes, Christmas decorations and toys.

In return for his list the mayor, Zo Tsukamoto, asks that he be supplied with a list of Victoria manufacturers, importers and exporters, pamphlets, catalogues and any other literature concerning foreign trade.

Governor To Attend Scottish Reunion

Lieutenant-Governor Charles A. Banks, honorary-colonel of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, will attend the annual reunion dinner of the regimental family association to be held Saturday night in the Loughheed Banquet Hall, Douglas Street, Brig. John Rockingham, association president reported today.

The president points out there are still some tickets available and should be picked up from him at the B.C.E.R. Fort Street headquarters, as quickly as possible. The reunion, which will also see many ex-commanding officers of the regiment's battalion present, is open to men who have been associated with the regiment. It will start at 7.

Ten residents of the area have petitioned the City Council to prohibit erection of a contractor's shed on the northwest corner of Rock Bay Avenue and John Street, claiming its construction will decrease the value of their property, or failing its prohibition, that it be made attractive.

Commissioners Renamed

The provincial government has reappointed Edgar S. Robinson, Vancouver public librarian, and Hugh N. Lidster, New Westminster city solicitor, to the Public Library Commission for three-year terms.

Mrs. Hilda Bates will be hostess at a social evening for members and friends of the Ex-R.A.F. Club of Victoria at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kyle, 242 Wildwood Avenue, Friday

Further Adjustments

Further adjustments have been effected by the provincial government in the slate of deputy registrars of voters who will make the house-to-house canvass of Saanich electoral district to rebuild the voters' list for the forthcoming by-election.

Name of W. A. Deane has been removed from the list, and the names of Robert Lawrence and Jim Day added.

No date has been set for the by-election which will be held to name a successor to Mr. Justice Norman W. Whittaker, who must resign his position as Saanich M.L.A. and Speaker of the B.C. Legislature.

This week, however, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer hinted the by-election should be held before the B.C. Legislature convenes next spring.

Fire Chief Robert T. Brindle warned of the danger of overloaded electrical circuits in city homes and buildings after his department had attended a Foul Bay Road residence and were forced to call the B.C. Electric Company to shut off the power to the house as the wires had become extremely hot due to an overloaded condition. "That practice creates a serious fire hazard," the chief said, also noting that it was against the law to use anything greater than a 15-ampere fuse for branch circuits.

Elmer was quite a spooner!

1. You should have seen Elmer make goo goo eyes at a tempting dish of Grape-Nuts when that really different, delicious cereal appeared on his breakfast table back in the Nineties. And you should have heard his lips smack as he spooned his way through each glorious serving.

2. Millions of folks are enjoying that malty-rich, nut-sweet taste today in curly, golden-brown POST'S GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES as well as Post's Grape-Nuts. And it is giving them carbohydrates for energy; proteins for muscle; phosphorus for teeth and bones; iron for the blood; other food essentials.

3. There's double goodness in Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes. That's because they're made of two grains—wheat and malted barley—specially blended, baked and toasted for malty-rich, sweet-nutty flavor and easy digestion. And no fuss or bother—they're ready to eat from the package.

4. That hard-working fellow who runs the grocery store down at the corner has been busy all morning stacking Post's Grape-Nuts Flakes on his shelves so they'll be ready when you get down there. Why not hike down now and pick up a couple of packages. See recipes for making cookies and other good things on every package.

5 Per Cent Quota For Importers Till Final Figure Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian importers may obtain an import quota equal to 5 per cent of their respective purchases of goods from scheduled countries in the year ended June 30, pending final settlement of their annual quota, it was learned today.

Customs inspectors have been authorized to make the interim quota allocations after importers have filed applications for their annual allocations.

"This will enable individual importers who depend on frequent imports of relatively small size to keep in supply, while awaiting final determination of their total allocation," said Finance Department officials.

The interim allocation will be deducted later from the annual allocation.

Under import restrictions announced Monday by Finance Minister Abbott, a long list of imports considered non-essential were barred from all countries. Another list of consumer imports was placed on a quota basis.

Quotas were set for such imports coming from Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Panama, El Salvador, Switzerland, Russia, the United States and its possessions, and Venezuela.

These are the so-called "scheduled countries" or countries which Canada must pay in dollars for goods received. As a means of saving dollars, the government decided imports from such countries should be cut by as much as 50 per cent of their current rate.

However, importers may, if possible, supplement this 50 per cent quota with imports from non-dollar or sterling area countries.

The first quota will cover imports from Nov. 18 to March 31. Thereafter, the quotas will be issued for three-month periods.

Imports of coal and fuel oil were specifically exempted from the regulation.

NOTE CANADA'S COURSE
The A.A.R. notice to the railroads took note of Canada's action of Nov. 17 restricting imports because of that country's difficulty in obtaining United States dollars to finance imports from that country.

The Canadian import restrictions apply primarily to consumer goods and luxury items. In some cases, imports are being prohibited, while other classes of imports are subject to quotas.

The A.A. advised its members that the partial embargo "must be made effective immediately" to avoid congestion and car delay at Canadian border crossings.

In Ottawa, Transport Department officials said the partial embargo was a precautionary measure to prevent goods, barred or placed under quota by the new import restrictions, from reaching border points where they would be turned back by Canadian customs officials.

The restrictions do not apply against goods that were in transit Nov. 17 when the action to curb imports first was announced.

Blum Finally Agrees To Form Cabinet; Conscripts Called Up

PARIS (CP)—Leon Blum agreed tonight to try to form a government of "public safety" to attempt to bring peace to France's troubled labor situation.

The search for a new "strong man" came to an end as France recalled to the colors part of the 1947 military class to bring the army up to "normal strength."

The recall order, broadcast over the national radio chain, brought about 140,000 more troops into the army at a time when the government was trying to stem a spreading strike wave.

Half of the 1947 contingent of troops, not due to be demobilized until spring, was freed a few months ago to provide man power for industry and agriculture.

Auriol was reported to have completed his consultations with party leaders who flocked to the Elysees Palace until late Wednesday night after the resignation of Premier Ramadier and again throughout this morning.

Auriol invited Socialist elder statesman Blum to lunch with him and usually well-informed sources said the President would commission him to try to form a widely-based government—probably with all but the Communists and De Gaulists represented.

Long Ceremony's 1-Slight Mishap Goes Unnoticed

was heard the clack of sword scabbards on bare stones.

As Big Ben across Parliament Square from the Abbey struck 11 a.m., the Archbishop of Canterbury in cope and mitre of white and gold brocade; his chaplain, bearing the jeweled cross of Canterbury; the dean of the Abbey, Very Rev. Alan Don, and the precentor, Rev. Cyril Armitage, moved to the high altar. Their vestments gleamed in the golden candlelight.

Soon after the dean went to the great door to receive the Queen.

The dean, wearing a cape of gold cloth woven with cream silk, then returned to the altar accompanying the Queen, who was wearing a dress of apricot and gold with the star of the Garter around her neck. Queen Mother Mary was also in this group. The Duchess of Kent was beautiful in a long and shining ivory dress and a white peaked hat set at an angle.

Only the bridegroom's mother, Princess Andrew, came to the Abbey in rich royal purple, once a favorite color of all European royal families.

Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Mary and the Duchess of Kent, accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester in military uniform, quietly took their seats on the south side of the altar beneath a large gold tapestry faded with age and surmounted with an ancient oil painting of Edward the Confessor.

On the north side of the altar were Princess Andrew and other relatives of the bridegroom, including his uncle, Earl Mountbatten, in a naval uniform wearing the Star of India, and Countess Mountbatten in a long white dress and headpiece.

The floor of the Abbey trembled as the throbbing organ sounded again. Then, as it fell silent, the bells of the Abbey and of St. Margaret's could be heard.

A short procession, including minor canons and the precentor, brought in the bridegroom, tall and erect, followed by the best man, the Marquess of Milford Haven. Both took their places on the south side of the lantern, just under the steps leading to the altar.

Philip was smiling and every few moments he turned to exchange whispers with the best man—who appeared the more composed of the two.

The echo of vast cheering outside indicated the arrival of the bride and soon after, as the Princess, leaning on the King's arm, passed slowly through the crowded nave, through the great bronze gates into the choir and into the lantern, the organ swelled more powerfully than ever.

As the bride passed the nave the whole clergy of the Abbey, according to custom, bowed to the King as bearer of the title, "Visitor of the Royal Foundation of the Abbey."

LINK WITH HENRY V.
A fanfare of silver trumpets sounded from the Shrine of Edward the Confessor while the King and the Princess took their places on the altar steps beside the bridegroom and Lord Milford Haven.

Pale but composed, the Princess passed slowly across the lantern to the altar steps, her head held high, her carriage gracious. As she took her place beside her fiancé, Philip half turned and gave her a fleeting smile of welcome which was acknowledged with a momentary upward glance.

Preceding the bridal procession were the dean and canons of Westminster, minor canons and the Abbey choir in white and scarlet singing "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven, to His Feet Thy Tribute Bring."

The service proceeded smoothly. The words "I will" were softly spoken and more softly repeated. The King bowed in answer to the Archbishop of Canterbury's question: "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?"

The Duke placed the ring on Princess Elizabeth's finger and they both knelt as the archbishop joined their hands. Then, as the full, glorious music of the choir singing the psalm "God Be Merciful to Us" sounded from the distant organ loft, they moved slowly up the steps to the high altar. The King moved to stand on the left of Queen Elizabeth.

When the psalm was finished and the precentor began the Lord's Prayer, the Abbey choir, to which children of the Chapel Royal had been added, sounded "Amen!" in clear, silvery voices.

music specially composed for the occasion by Dr. William McKie, Abbey organist.

The address by the Archbishop of York followed, with the final blessing by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the choir singing "Amen" in a lovely, three-fold setting by Orlando Gibbons. Then the vast congregation rose as a trumpet fanfare preceded the singing of the National Anthem.

After the newly-married pair had signed the register in the Chapel of Edward the Confessor, another brisk fanfare announced their return to the sanctuary and the bridal procession, led by the choir and the clerics, moved down the aisle to Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Gleaming chimes signaled the end of the ceremony and the wedding procession moved away from the Abbey to the palace.

C.P. Correspondent Caught In Crowds, Missed Assignment
(Jack Sullivan of the Canadian Press was assigned to visit BBC headquarters today to watch the television of the Royal wedding. But he never got there and here is his explanation.)

By JACK SULLIVAN
LONDON (CP)—At 5 a.m. I left my home to have a look at the wedding crowds before going to my assignment, which was to cover the television of the Royal wedding at the headquarters of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

So I saw the west door of Westminster Abbey . . . so I saw the route of the Royal procession . . . so I ended up wedged tightly in a good-natured, wise-cracking mob at Trafalgar Square.

A police radio car boomed that passholders could get through the crowd but it took more than a pass to forge a way out of that mob.

I waved a Canadian passport while two other newspapermen, representing London dailies, waved police passes. But the crowd didn't budge—no one could step backward or forward.

I didn't even see the bride, the bridegroom or any of the Royal Family. Their arrival from the palace, along the Mall towards Trafalgar Square, was heralded by every woman in the crowd holding a mirror above her head. They were not fussing about faces—they wanted a good reflection look at the distinguished royal persons.

I was wedged against a wall, acting as a buffer between a middle-aged woman who waved a mirror in front of my face as each carriage on limousine passed and a young typist who asked me to hold her mirror for her.

At least 25 persons in the surrounding 50-yard area fainted, and youngsters who collapsed were handed over the sea of heads to overworked first aid men who bundled the casualties on to stretchers and carried them away.

I got into this spot in the shadow of Nelson's monument after a half-mile hike through the crowds at the suggestion of a policeman stationed at the Abbey. He said: "Just go down Whitehall until you hit Trafalgar Square and then you're away."

But it wasn't that easy. En route, people asked: "Who yer pushin'—take it easy, lad. Lizzie won't be around for three hours."

At Trafalgar Square policemen were five deep in front of the crowds which packed the borders of the royal route and it was impossible to move.

Winnipeg Girl Sees Procession
LONDON (CP)—Winnipeg's Betty White, who came all the way to London to attend Princess Elizabeth's wedding, gift reception only to miss it when her plane was delayed en route, was among those who lined the streets today to see the wedding procession.

She wasn't an early riser, though. She didn't leave her hotel until 8.15 a.m., hours after tens of thousands of other watchers had arrived on the scene.

the Mall, while police linked arms and held back the press of cheering people.

Through the glass of the coach people could see the princess, her white veil flowing behind her smiling face. Her bronzed father, the King, sat beside her and waved in salute.

In a moment they were gone, their escort cantering behind and from Buckingham Palace the crowd could see a spot of the color as the royal procession swept up the historic mile towards Trafalgar Square and on through Whitehall to the Abbey.

Three minutes before the Princess left the palace, her sailor bridegroom, the Duke of Edinburgh, drove past in a maroon royal automobile lent by the King. Wearing naval uniform, he was en route from Kensington Palace, where he had spent the night, to the Abbey. With his best man, his cousin, the Marquess of Milford Haven, beside him, the handsome 26-year-old duke waved to the crowd. The marquess also was in naval uniform.

GIRL GUIDES THERE
Among the first to cheer Princess Elizabeth as she left were Girl Guides and Sea Rangers at the palace gates.

"Oh, isn't she just too lovely," exclaimed women as the royal procession passed through the crowds.

In exact timing, other members of the royal family and notables made their way to the Abbey through lanes held open by police and by guardsmen with their rifles at the present.

Some of the throng hurried off to their jobs as soon as the Abbey-bound procession had passed, but most of the people waited for the return of Princess Elizabeth with her husband.

Roar after roar of cheers rose as the carriage rolled briskly back along Whitehall and the broad Mall, the Princess waving and the fair-haired Duke of Edinburgh saluting.
